The NABC/Sears National Championship Trophy and Final Four jump circle from Atlanta are displayed in Comcast Center to celebrate the Terps' 2002 national title.

Gary Williams has earned a spacious and stylish office to greet players, coaches, guests and recruits.

On Jan. 18, 2003, No. 17 Maryland downed No. 1 Duke, 87-72, in the Terps' first slaying of a top-ranked team in Comcast Center.

Maryland's new home for Terrapin Athletics was completed in the fall of 2002 and has already provided three seasons of topped attendance records and memories on the hardwood. Comcast Center provides a seating capacity of 17,950 fans for basketball, and serves as a campus site for university special events and select community events.

The Terrapins' first public basketball event was its 2002 Midnight Madness celebration, which has grown to one of the premiere student events of the academic year. In its first season, 281,057 fans were on hand to witness Terrapin basketball games for a per-game average of 17,566 as the Terrapins finished fifth in the nation. The Terps went on to finish fifth in the nation once again in 2003-04, with a school-record 287,200 spectators packing the arena for 16 full sellouts and a capacity per-game average of 17,950. Maryland drew 299,391 fans to Comcast Center during the 2004-05 season, again setting a school record. The Terps finished sixth in the nation in home attendance last season and has a three-year average of 17,168.

The honored jersey numbers of 15 of the greatest men's basketball players in school history, as well as banners commemorating the 2002 national championship and the 2002 National Coach of the Year Gary Williams, hang high above the court in Comcast Center's rafters. The 2004 ACC Tournament Championship banner was added two years ago.

Twenty suites provide enhanced viewing and entertainment capabilities for Maryland fans. Maryland's student section, affectionately known as "GARYLAND," accommodates 4,000 of the Terps' perennial ardent supporters. Students fill the first 10 rows that ring the arena floor and a majority of seats on the arena's west wall – which at an intimidating 35 degree incline provides the Terrapins' with a unique home court advantage.

Comcast Center houses the university's athletics administration offices and includes a 7,000-square-foot Academic Support Center, providing an enhanced study atmosphere for the school's nearly 750 student-athletes on 27 teams. An additional 1,500-seat gymnasium serves as home to the Terps' volleyball, gymnastics and wrestling teams, and Sprint Heritage Hall multi-purpose room is equipped to host banquets, press conferences, meetings and serve as a pregame restaurant suite overlooking the competition arena.

Comcast Center is an excellent place for alumni and fans to enjoy their favorite sports and share in their common Terrapin spirit. Visitors can learn about the men and women who have forged the Maryland Athletics program among the nation's elite as they stroll through the Terrapin Walk of Fame and History. The Terrapin Team Store, located just off the soaring three-level atrium lobby, allows visitors to outfit their pride.

Maryland has once again reclaimed the status of having the best student activities center and basketball arena in the country.

CHAMPIONS

Gritty Terps claim 1st NCAA title

By Don Williams

ATLANTA — The dark cloud that has loomed over the University of Maryland basketball program for most of the past two decades, it was only on Sunday, Sunday afternoon that it finally lifted. Maryland won its first national championship since 1956.

It was a gritty 84-69 victory over Duke in the Orange Bowl, the program's 32nd national title. The victory will be the first national championship in the program's long and storied history.

Let's remember Coach Williams. Duke coach Mike Krzyzewski, who scored a game-high 26 points, shot from 12-of-19 from the field and 10-of-14 from the free-throw line. Maryland's defense was the key to the victory.

Gary Williams became the first coach to lead his alma mater to an NCAA championship since 1974.

The Terps' 32 victories broke the Maryland record for wins in a season. The Terps became the 15th team in ACC history to win 30 games.

2002 NATIONAL CHAMPIONS

NCAA Final Four MVP Juan Dixon had 155 points in the 2002 tourney, the ninth-highest figure in tournament history. His five steals against Indiana were the most in a title game since 1990.

Maryland's Baxter & Dixon duo is the highest-scoring tandem (4,127 points) in NCAA history to win a national championship. They are the 12th-highest scoring duo of all time.

Then-sophomore John Gilchrist averaged 24.0 points, 6.3 assists and 5.3 rebounds per game en route to Tournament MVP honors.

The Terrapins, statistically the youngest team in college basketball in 2004, captured the Atlantic Coast Conference Tournament title in a season where the ACC was rated the toughest conference in the nation.

Maryland was only the third team in tournament history to beat the No. 3 seed, the No. 2 seed and the No. 1 seed en route to the conference crown.

The Terps overcame a 21-point first-half deficit to defeat NC State in the ACC Semi-final Round, marking the greatest comeback in the tournament's 51-year history.

Basketball FAMILY

MARYLAND MADNESS LIVE!

MARYLAND MADNESS

The Midnight Madness tradition that Charles "Lefty" Driesell started in College Park in 1971 continues today, and arguably, nobody does it better than the University of Maryland.

Perennially one of the Athletics Department's most popular events, Maryland Madness always features a music and laser light show and performances by the Terrapin Spirit Squad, the Gymkana Troupe and the dance team. More than 15,000 screaming fans have turned out annually to the event to catch a sneak preview of the Terps during their annual intrasquad scrimmage.

Head coach Gary Williams has made his spectacular Maryland Madness entrance a tradition. He rode out onto the court in a Harley-Davidson motorcycle in 2003, and drove Donnie Neuenberger's "Fear the Turtle" NASCAR one the floor in 2004.

A Gary Williams look-alike contest was part of the festivities in 2004, which was a fan-favorite during the evening's program. Maryland Madness was televised live on Comcast SportsNet in 2004 and 2006.

BASKETBALL ALUMNI

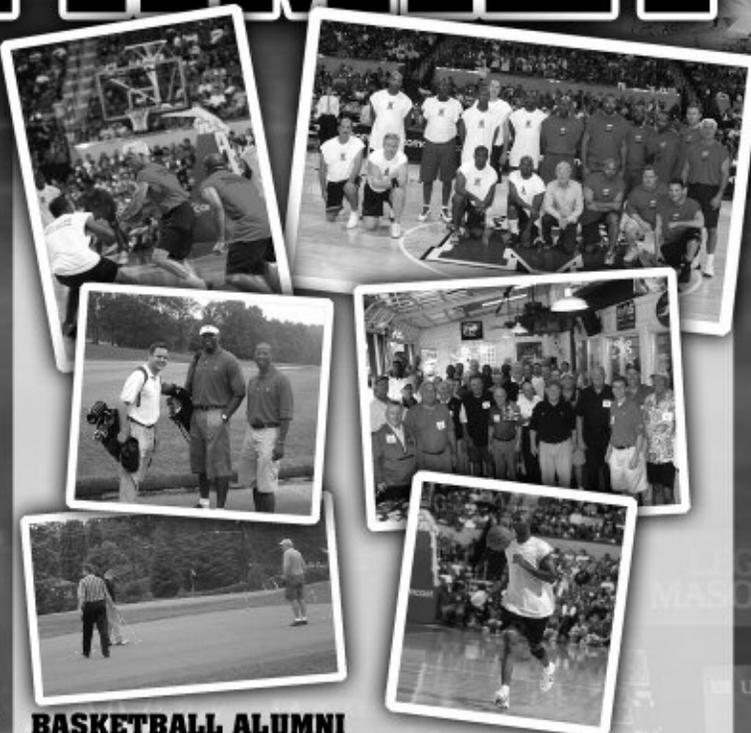

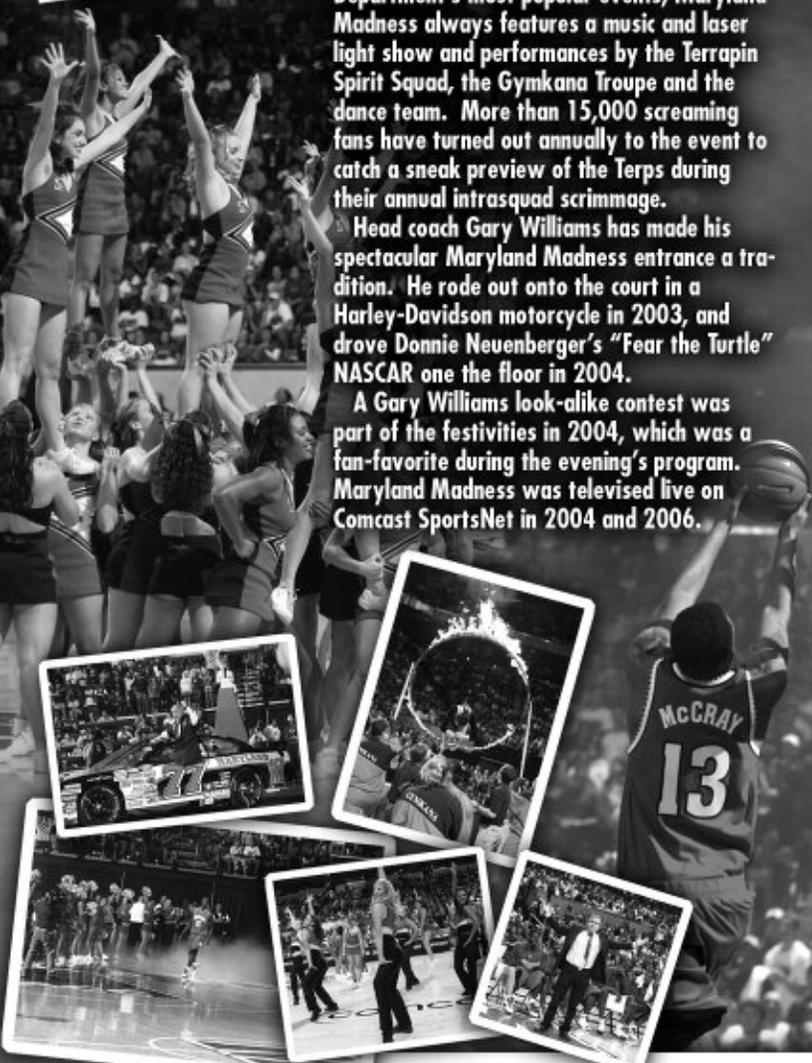

Former men's basketball players are among the most devoted followers of the Maryland team, and continue their involvement each year through various events, including an annual alumni game during Midnight Madness festivities and an alumni golf outing with Gary Williams.

Among the numerous participants who returned for the past several alumni games and Midnight Madness celebrations include: Mike Anderson, Earl Badu, Jeff Baxter, Adrian Branch, Neil Brayton, Wayne Bristol, LaRon Cephas, Bob Cutler, Matt Downing, Max Etienne, Norman Fields, Keith Gatlin, Ernie Graham, Jerry Greenspan, Joe Harrington, Bob Hart, Dave Henderson, Pete Holbert, Mo Howard, Speedy Jones, Donny Judd, Matt Kaluzienski, Mitch Kasoff, Matt Kovarik, Cedric Lewis, Derrick Lewis, Tom McMillen, Dutch Morley, Jim O'Brien, Brian Palmer, Matt Raydo, Johnny Rhodes, Tom Roy, Harvey Sanders, Ron Siegrist, Kurtis Shultz, Duane Simpkins, Garfield Smith, Jim Spiro, Terrell Stokes, Stan Swetnam, Mike Thibeault, Jap Trimble, and "The Wizard" Walt Williams.

BASKETBALL TRAVEL

The Maryland basketball team flies charter airplanes to nearly every game on its schedule. Pictured is a 50-passenger aircraft which transports the Terps from city to city throughout the season. This regional jet features two-by-two seating with no middle seats, and is the quietest flying jet in the world. It can cruise at 530 mph and up to 41,000 feet.

Charter flights make getting to, and coming back from, any destination easy and comfortable. This type of travel allows the Terps to be on campus and in class as soon as possible following road games, and overnight stays are minimized. The convenience and comfort of charter airplane travel allows for convenient, efficient, frequent service as well as maximized practice and study time.

IN THE COMMUNITY

The Terrapins and head coach Gary Williams are active members of the University of Maryland and greater Baltimore-Washington, D.C., community. The men's basketball team is involved in extensive charity, fund-raising and public speaking events throughout the year, particularly in the offseason.

In September of 2004, University of Maryland President C.D. Mote Jr. announced that Williams will co-chair the scholarship component of Maryland's ongoing $200 million fund-raising campaign. Williams served as the commencement speaking at the graduation proceedings for the Robert H. Smith School of Business in 2004. He has been heavily involved in the NABC's Coaches vs. Cancer efforts, a program that is a partnership between the National Association of Basketball Coaches and the American Cancer Society. Williams also has worked with Maryland grad Boomer Esiason and others to benefit the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation, hosting charity basketball games and golf events. For the past two years, he has served as the honorary chairman for the Walk Far for N.A.A.R., which has raised more than one million dollars for the National Alliance of Autism Research. He has also chaired Salvation Army's FORE Kids golf tournament in 2003 and 2004, which raises proceedings for Washington D.C.'s youth.

In the fall of 2004, Terrapin players and coaches joined with members of the Greek community in raising $21,000 for Ronald McDonald House Charities as they took part in the Hoops For Kids event at Ritchie Coliseum.

COMMITMENT TO EDUCATION

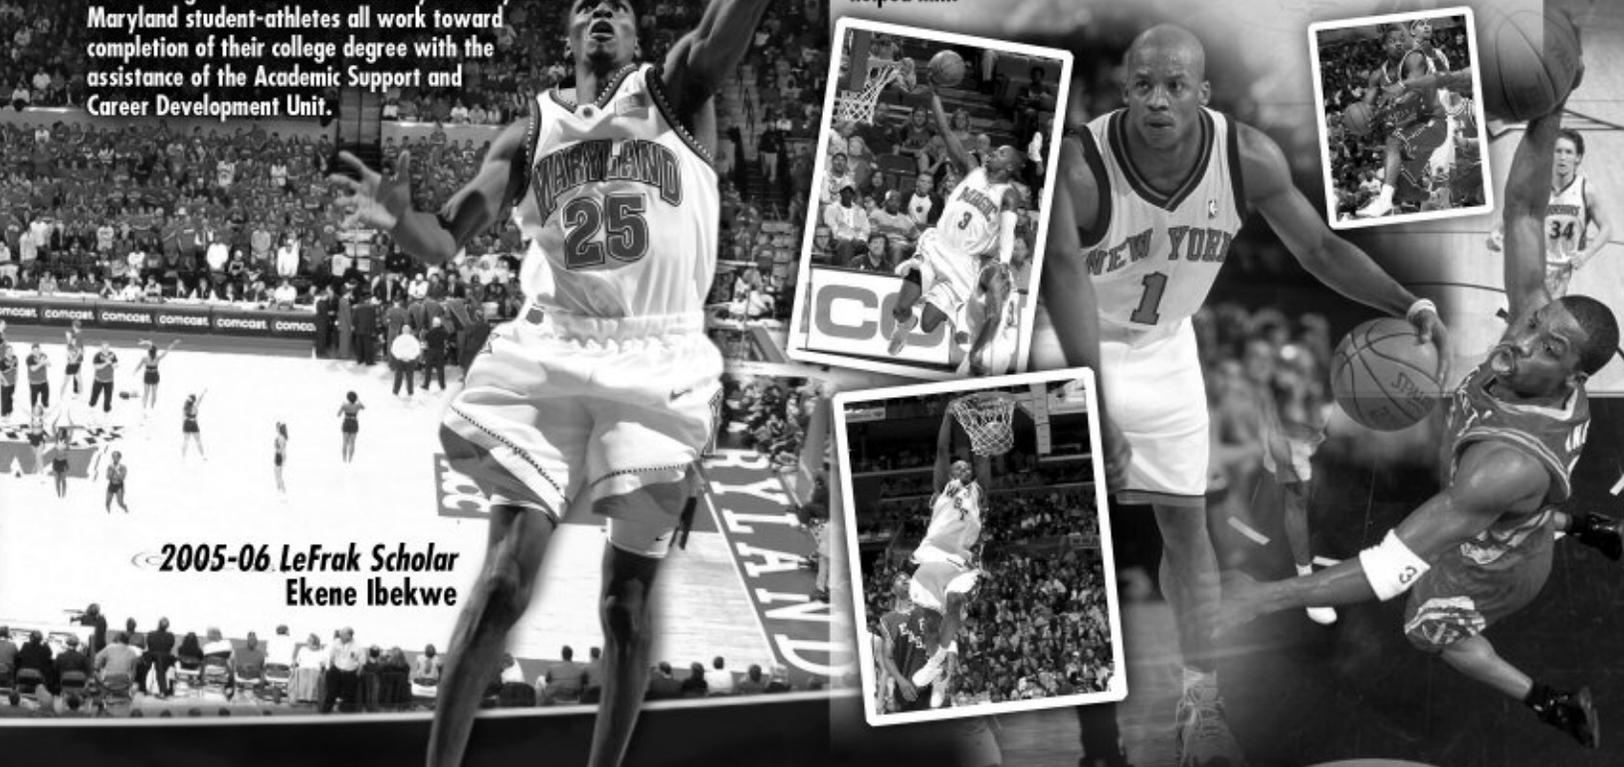

Under Gary Williams, the Maryland basketball program continues to place a high priority on education and the personal growth of its student-athletes. Senior Ekene Ibekwe has been named the recipient of the LeFrak Scholarship Award for the third consecutive year. The scholarship represents an endowment established by the Samuel J. and Ethel LeFrak Foundation, and is awarded annually to three Maryland student-athletes who exhibit extraordinary athletic, leadership and scholarship abilities.

Many former Terps continue to work toward their degrees while continuing to pursue professional basketball opportunities. Tahj Holden and Drew Nicholas were among the many former Maryland players in College Park over the summer working to earn their degrees. Keith Booth, a four-year starter and 1997 All-American, graduated in 2003 after pursuing a professional basketball career that included winning the NBA Championship in 1998, and is now one of Gary Williams' new assistant coaches. Former Terps Calvin McCall, Laron Profit and Terrell Stokes are among the recent men's basketball players to earn degrees from the University of Maryland. Maryland student-athletes all work toward completion of their college degree with the assistance of the Academic Support and Career Development Unit.

NBA SUPERSTAR STEVE FRANCIS

One of Terrapin basketball's most prominent alumni superstars in recent years, two-time NBA All-Star Steve Francis remains very close to Maryland's campus in the off-season. Francis, an All-American with the Terps in 1999 and the NBA Co-Rookie of the Year in 2000, maintains close ties with the Terrapin program and can be found in and around College Park during the summer playing pick-up, making public appearances, or in some cases, helping students in need.

Some of Maryland's students were temporarily without a home following a tornado in the fall of 2001 that swept through campus, but Francis was on hand to help. The NBA superstar did his part to aid in local relief efforts by offering a free meal to the near-700 students who reside in the University Courtyard apartments, which had been rendered unsafe after the disaster. Nearly 110 students got word of Francis' dinner and were in attendance at the UM Golf Course banquet facility. Francis joined the group for dinner, remarking to the group that he remembered people supporting him while he was a Maryland student and it was a small way that he could give back to those who helped him.

GAMEDAY AT

Maryland basketball games have become a loud and boisterous experience with capacity crowds since Gary Williams took over as head coach for the 1989-90 season. The Terrapins boast one of the most active and enthusiastic crowds in the country, which has helped carry the Maryland program to two Final Four appearances, the 2002 national championship, the 2004 ACC title and record-breaking attendance in each of the last four seasons at Comcast Center.

M Maryland's home attendance numbers have ranked at least sixth in the nation in each of the last four seasons. After shattering all previous records in Comcast Center's first season with an overall attendance of 281,057 (average of 17,566), Maryland eclipsed that mark with 16 full sellouts in 2003-04 when it drew a per-game average of 17,970 to home games.

M In 2004-05, Maryland set a school record when 299,391 fans came to see Maryland basketball games. Over the last four years, home attendance has skyrocketed to 1,159,609, with an average of 17,168 each time the Terps play in Comcast Center.

M After averaging 13,377 fans and ranking 20th in the country in 1998, the Terps set a then-school record with a 14,474 average in 1999 while ranking 15th nationally. In 2002, Cole Field House's final season, Maryland continued to draw capacity numbers, averaging 14,166 fans and ranking 17th. The Terps drew 14,058 fans and ranked 18th in 2001. Those totals were only eclipsed by the Terps' move to Comcast Center, which ranks as the second-largest on-campus arena in the ACC.

M For the past seven seasons, the Terps have set school records and ranked in the top 10 nationally in overall attendance, home and away. Maryland eclipsed its own overall record in five straight seasons and has played before at least 400,000 fans in eight consecutive seasons.

M Maryland's school-record home attendance average in 2004 included 16 regular-season home games played before crowds that reached a capacity 17,950. Maryland played to 100 percent capacity for the entire season in the $125 million, 17,950-seat Comcast Center, after playing to 98 percent capacity in the arena's inaugural year.

M Maryland has combined to fill its home arena to more than 96 percent capacity since the 1993-94 season.

M More than 2.8 million people have watched men's basketball in College Park over the last 13 seasons, as the Terps have forged one of the most consistent and animated home crowds in the nation. The terps own a 169-28 (.858) home record in the last 13 seasons, with perfect marks in 2002 (15-0) and 1995 (16-0).

M During Gary Williams' tenure as head coach, the Terps have achieved double-digit home victories in 16 out of 17 seasons.

THE POWER of the

ACC AND THE RPI REPORT

The ACC has been the top-rated conference in the nation five of the past 11 years according to the RPI Report, and in the top three nationally every year since 1996. In addition to 2004 and 2005, the ACC rated first for three consecutive seasons (1996-98), ranked second in 1999, third in 2000, second in 2002 and third in 2003 and 2006.

ACC SETS ATTENDANCE MARK

For the first time ever, the ACC surpassed the two million mark in attendance with the 12 league teams totaling 2,277,076 over 191 regular season games and six tournament sessions. Maryland was sixth in the nation with an average of 17,174 fans per home game.

ASSOCIATED PRESS POLLS REFLECT ACC STRENGTH

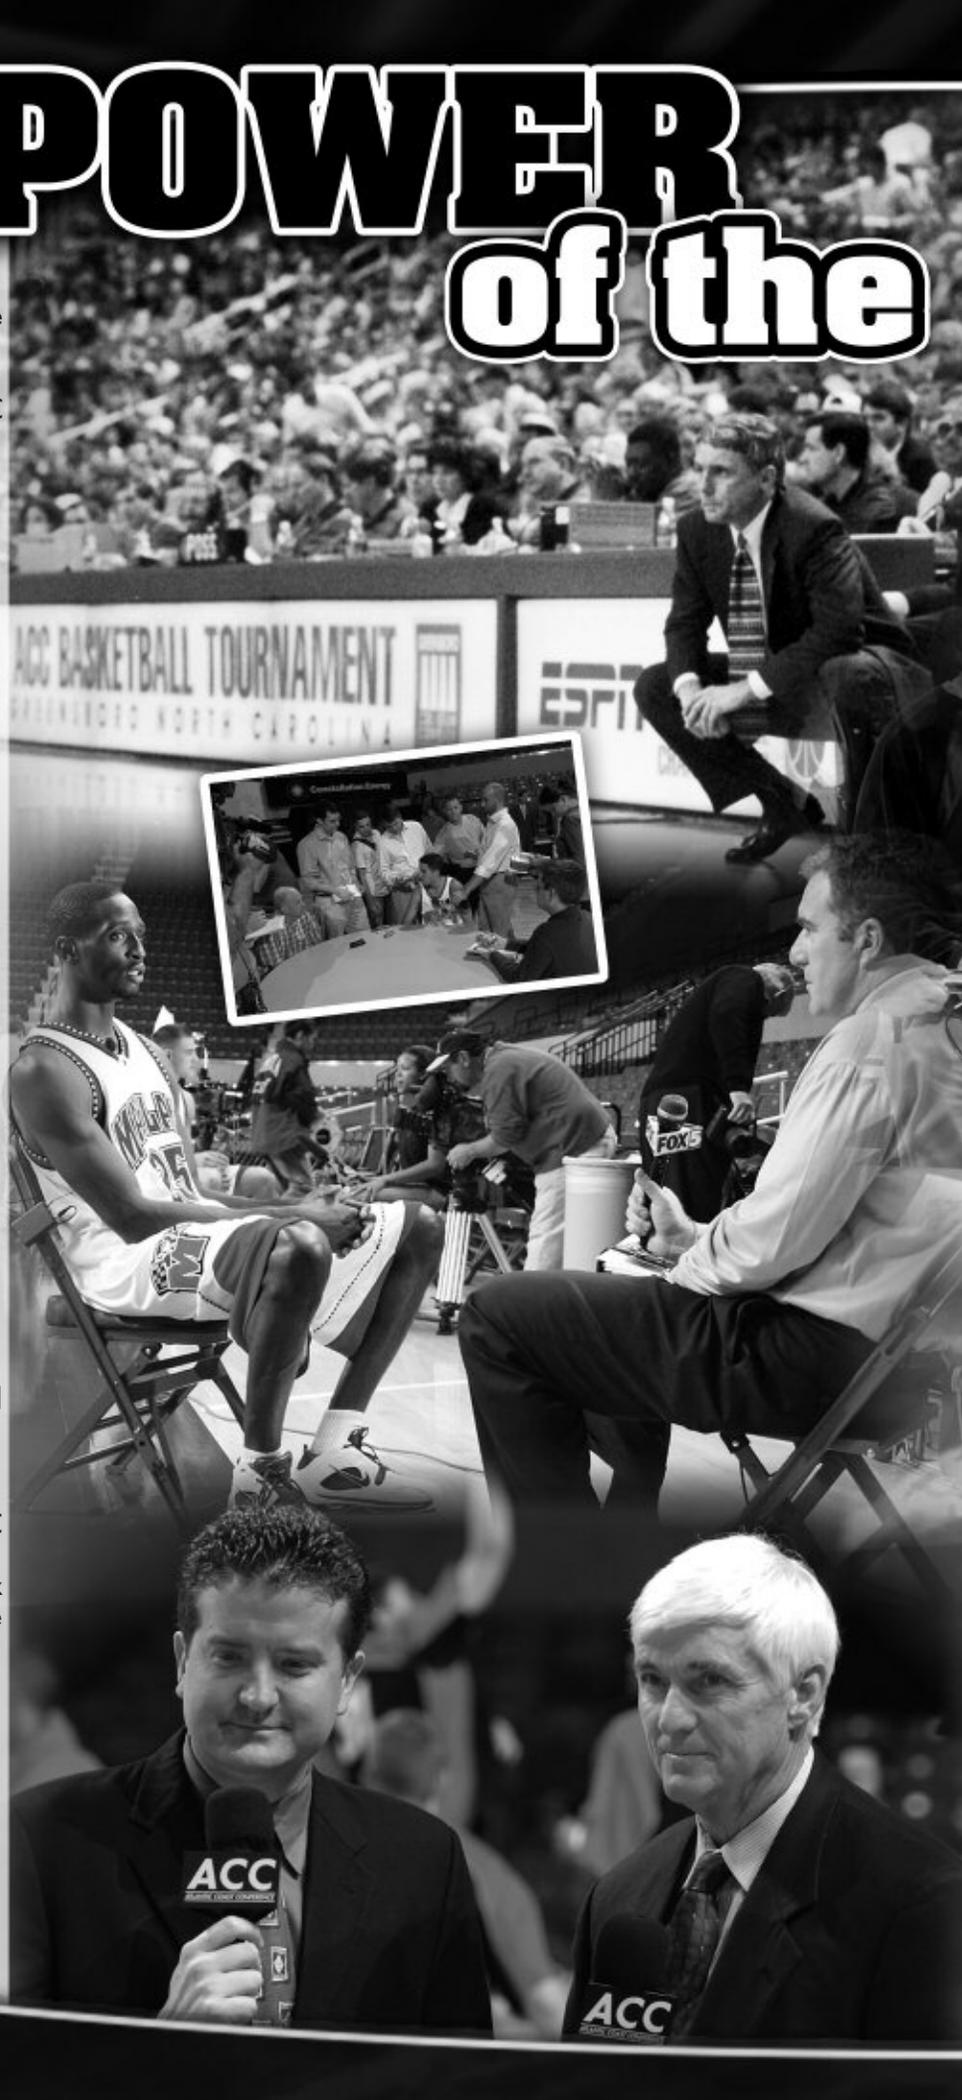

With Maryland's No. 1 ranking in the final USA Today/ESPN poll in 2002, the ACC became the first conference in history to have two different teams finish the season ranked No. 1 in the two major polls. Duke finished the season as the top-ranked team in the Associated Press poll and helped the ACC become the first league in NCAA history to finish No. 1 in the final AP poll in consecutive seasons.

ACC UNPRECEDENTED IN THE ASSOCIATED PRESS POLL

The ACC became the first conference in history to have seven teams ranked in the Associated Press poll during two consecutive weeks during the 1997-98 season. Maryland, North Carolina, Duke, Florida State, Clemson, Wake Forest and Georgia Tech were each ranked in the AP polls of Dec. 1 and 8. The ACC reached unprecedented success in the AP poll in 2000-01, with five different teams ranked in the Top 25 from start-to-finish: Duke, Maryland, North Carolina, Virginia and Wake Forest. The ACC has had at least three teams in the final AP poll in 24 of the last 27 years, including a national-most six teams in 2003. Six of the 12 teams in the ACC were ranked at least eight times in 2005-06.

ACC IN THE NCAA TOURNAMENT

In terms of success, the Atlantic Coast Conference is unrivaled in the history of the NCAA Tournament. The league teams have made the ACC the winningest conference all-time in NCAA Tournament play, with a cumulative record of 357-196 (.646).

ACC

■ In 2005, North Carolina became the third ACC team to win a national championship in the last six years and the 11th overall. The ACC has had at least one Final Four team in 16 of the last 19 years and in 21 of the last 26.

■ Over the last 18 years, ACC teams have made more Final Four appearances than any other conference. Since 1988, the ACC has made 20 Final Four appearances, with the Big 10 in second at 14.

■ Since the NCAA Tournament expanded to 64 teams in 1985, the ACC has the most Tournament wins (221), the best winning percentage (.678), the most Sweet 16 appearances (61), the most regional final appearances (32) and the most Final Four teams (21).

■ Over the past 26 years (since 1981), four different ACC schools have won a total of eight NCAA titles, three more than any other conference.

■ The ACC is 58-26 (.690) over the past six tournaments. The ACC has had 10 or more Tournament wins in four of the last seven years and 14 times overall.

■ In 2004, the ACC was the first conference in NCAA Tournament history to have five teams – Duke (#1), Georgia Tech (#3), NC State (#3), Maryland (#4), Wake Forest (#4) – seeded fourth or higher.

ACC Television

■ A record-setting 278 television appearances involving Atlantic Coast Conference teams headline the league's 2006-07 basketball schedule. The schedule also boasts 182 televised games involving ACC teams and marks the 12th straight year that the league has had more than 200 television appearances.

■ ACC teams will make a league-record 157 appearances on national television networks, including 50 appearances on ESPN, 35 on ESPN2, 33 on Fox Sports Net, 18 on ESPNU, 10 on ABC, nine on CBS and one on CSTV.

■ Fox Sports Net and affiliates will televise 18 games, including 18 Sunday afternoon and evening games on a national basis starting with the N.C. State at Virginia game on December 3 ... 14 of the 18 Sunday games are conference matchups.

■ Headlining the non-conference schedule is the eighth annual ACC-Big 10 Challenge, pairing two of the nation's premier conferences in a regular season challenge series. Last year the ACC won the Challenge for the seventh straight time, winning six of the nine games played. Also included in the regular-season schedule are 29 games against 26 non-conference opponents that earned NCAA Tournament berths a year ago.

■ In 1998-99, the ACC became the first conference in collegiate basketball history to have its entire conference-game package televised either regionally or nationally.

Maryland alumni are familiar faces to sports fans across the nation. Bonnie Bernstein of CBS, Len Elmore, Scott Van Pelt, Pam Ward and Tim Kurkjian of ESPN and Jimmy Roberts of NBC are all Terrapin alumni who have had outstanding broadcasting careers.

 ACC basketball will receive extensive live television coverage during the 2006-07 season, with the ESPN networks, Fox Sports Net, CBS, and ABC combining for 157 appearances. Counting regional broadcasts, a record 278 ACC appearances headline this season's schedule.

 ESPN, which originated its first-ever sports broadcast from the University of Maryland in 1979, has been a regular visitor to College Park. ESPN's College Basketball GameDay picked Comcast Center as one of eight sites to broadcast its live show in 2005.

 ACC basketball is featured weekly during the season on "ACC All-Access" show on regional networks.

 Every major television network – ABC, NBC, CBS, and FOX – has a major news gathering affiliate in both Baltimore and Washington, D.C. No university in the East boasts eight major news outlets within a 35-mile radius of its campus except for the University of Maryland. NO BETTER Place To Be

Terp Athletics Sixth in Comprehensive Ranking

The University of Maryland athletics department was ranked sixth in the nation in 2004 in a comprehensive rating system that determines the new Excellence in Athletics Cup, an award developed by the Laboratory for the Study of Intercollegiate Athletics at Texas A&M University.

The national award recognizes key areas including graduation rates, financial efficiency, equity effectiveness and competitive excellence.

There is no better place to be than the University of Maryland, College Park. With its top-ranked academic programs, nationally recognized faculty, diverse population, and lush 1,580-acre campus located between Washington, D.C., and Baltimore, Md., it's no wonder the University of Maryland is a sought-after destination for some of the state's — and the country's — best and brightest students.

Attracting them are some 111 majors and some of the highest-ranked programs in the country. As of 2005, 70 programs rank in the Top 25 nationally and 45 programs are in the Top 15. For instance, in the latest U.S. News & World Report undergraduate rankings, the University of Maryland's business school was ranked 22nd nationally, while the engineering school was also ranked 22nd. In graduate school rankings, the A. James Clark School of Engineering, the School of Public Affairs, the College of Behavioral & Social Sciences, the Robert H. Smith School of Business and the College of Education all had specialties listed among the Top 25 in the nation, according to U.S. News & World Report.

High-tech, engineering, and service industries thrive in close proximity to the campus, offering a wide spectrum of internships, work-study opportunities and career choices for students. And, the campus is surrounded by the dynamic cultural opportunities that only a major metropolitan area can provide.

Whether your focus is the sciences or the humanities, a small-town atmosphere or a metropolitan feel, the University of Maryland offers a wide range of educational and cultural opportunities.

There truly is no better place to be than the University of Maryland, College Park.

BALTIMORE

The 12th-largest city in the United States is often referred to as the "Charm City." Located just 35 miles north of the University of Maryland, its rejuvenation as an urban center is unprecedented. The Inner Harbor, its National Aquarium and tall ships, and the nearby Oriole Park at Camden Yards create an exciting, vibrant holiday atmosphere in a city that boasts one of the world's great sea ports.

ANNAPOLIS

The state capital of Maryland lies just 30 miles east of the University of Maryland. Long called the "sailing capital of the United States," Annapolis is located at the mouth of the Severn River on the Chesapeake Bay. The historic downtown area is known for its wonderful eating and shopping opportunities. There are few places in the world that rival the Chesapeake Bay area for its appealing qualities.

IN MEMORY OF Marvin Perry

Marvin Perry was a person who made everyone who came in contact with him feel better. Marvin was one of those people who always gave back. He demonstrated that in his relationships with his family, Religion, Fraternity (Phi Delta Theta); Athletic Department, Terrapin Club, and the Men's Basketball program.

Personally, Marvin was my friend. While Marvin was undergoing treatment for cancer, he would call me after a tough loss. Marvin did not want any sympathy. He only wanted to make sure I was doing okay.

If Marvin would have been a basketball player, he would have been one of those special people who made all of his teammates better players and people.

He will always be missed, but not forgotten.

— Gary Williams
