SPRING OUTLOOK

Outside looking in, the Maryland football program has its work cut out for it in this year's session of spring football. And though the work is never done for a Ralph Friedgen-coached football team, this group of Terps is in much better shape than one would tend to think of a squad coming off of a pair of seasons without a bowl game.

The Terrapins return seven starters on both the offensive and defensive sides of the ball and the team's punter, placekicker and other specialists all return. Moreover, a team which had success moving the ball a year ago returns what could be one of the league's top offensive lines and the starting backfield, while losing a grand total of just four lettermen on the entire defense.

While spots remain where faces will be new, and there were key losses like All-Americans Vernon Davis and D'Qwell Jackson, the 2006 Terrapins will be more in a mode of fine-tuning than overhauling this spring. At the same time, they will be working under new direction on offense (though in the same offensive system) and defense, with the addition of defensive coordinator Chris Cosh.

Below is a position-by-position breakdown of this year's spring football session at the University of Maryland:

OFFENSE Quarterback

One would be hard pressed to find anyone who would say that the Terrapins did not make significant progress at the quarterback position a year ago. Sam Hollenbach brought a gunslinger's mentality to the offense that produced over 2,500 yards passing, but because the team still turned the ball over and was unable to put a couple of games on ice, the race for the starting job will open again this spring and fall.

There is no question that Hollenbach is the front-runner at this point, and there is no reason to suspect that he will not be much improved in his final season. The Pennsylvania native played very well at times in his first year as a starter, but seemed to struggle after a shoulder injury against Virginia Tech. All things considered, it is his job to lose and if his decision-making and game management can improve, the Terps will have a potent aerial attack.

The primary challenger for the starting job – at least heading into spring – will be sophomore Jordan Steffy. Steffy redshirted a year ago and seemed to improve mentally and mechanically when given additional snaps in the last four-five weeks of last season. True signs of his progress and whether he is able to challenge for the starting job will likely not be evident until he is tested in the offseason scrimmages.

Bobby Sheahin is a walk-on who has impressed coaches and will be eligible this season. A transfer from West Virginia, Sheahin may have the strongest arm of those competing for the job this year and has been compared by coaches, ironically, to another former WVU transfer, Scott McBrien.

Now in his second year, Chris Turner will be working on continuing to learn the offense as well as improve his arm strength, while first-year transfer Josh Portis (Florida) is a highly regarded signal-caller who is easily the best runner of the group. He will get snaps in the spring in an effort to help him learn the offense before working mainly with the scout team in 2006 (a role McBrien also took on in his first year at Maryland).

"I would like to see us establish a guy this spring who can help us cut down on mistakes, have a better understanding of the offense, where to go with the ball and overall, how to manage a game better," said Friedgen.

Tailback

A year after a wide-open race at tailback, things seem to be back to normal heading into this spring.

The Terps are well-stocked and seem to have their old two-pronged attack back with the shifty, natural runner in Lance Ball (a second team All-ACC pick in his sophomore campaign) and a home run hitter with the return of Josh Allen. Ball will be looking to improve his speed and ability as a breakaway threat, while Allen – who will not be restricted this spring – will be looking to successfully return to the field for the first time since 2004. Spring will primarily serve as a jumping off point for the senior.

Also in the mix this spring will be senior J.P. Humber, T.D. Callahan and Morgan Green. Humber will be looking to earn playing time while Callahan is returning from a knee injury of his own, and newcomer Green will be looking to show his wares while also learning the Terp offense system. Keon Lattimore will miss spring (shoulder).

"In Lance, we have a known commodity, but I would like for him to get faster and continue to improve," said Friedgen. "It will be great to see Josh back out there because we have missed having that true breakaway threat. We will have to see how far along he is and be smart about it, but the plan is for him to participate in everything."

Fullback

The Tim Cesa experiment at fullback was a complete success a year ago as the former linebacker overcame an early-season illness, worked his way into the lineup, and finished as the team's starter. A physical, hard-nosed player, he will get more of a look this spring as a ball-carrier as well.

One of last year's most pleasant surprises was the play of Matt Deese, a sophomore who will back up Cesa. Deese is a battering ram who was brought in for goal-line situations last year and will provide the Terps with a strong one-two punch in front of the feature backs this season.

Another player to watch this spring will be Chris Gronkowski, younger brother of tight end Dan. His progression could provide even more depth at a position that is not slated to lose a player to graduation until after 2007.

PROSPECTUS

"We should be better at fullback this year with both guys having played last year," said Friedgen. "Our top two guys are both true fullbacks. Hopefully Chris Gronkowski can come on and provide us with some more depth, but right now, with Cesa and Deese, we don't have to rely on H-backs to be fullbacks so that is a plus."

Tight End

The Terps' top offensive player of a year ago – and maybe the last two years – has departed for the NFL. But what Vernon Davis has left at Maryland is an opportunity to look at what "could be" for a player with athleticism and talent.

What remains for the Terrapins this year are younger versions of what departed. There might not be another Vernon Davis in Maryland football history, but players like Jason Goode and incoming freshman Drew Gloster fit that mold. Goode will enter spring listed second on the depth chart behind Dan Gronkowski, but if his blocking can come along as Davis' did, he will be the type of receiver that can factor into Maryland's offense every down.

Gronkowski heads the list of "big" (or blocking) tight ends and will get a challenge for that role from Joey Haynos. The Terps' other recently-departed tight end, Derek Miller, gives them a model of consistency to follow in terms of blocking, but the hope is that they can exceed that model in the passing game. Both have good size (6-6 or taller) and Gronkowski, a former quarterback, has done well in his transition.

"Hopefully Jason can improve on his blocking and that will help us do what we would like to be able to do," said Friedgen. "Gronkowski and Haynos will work as our big tight ends and serve much the same role as a Jeff Dugan or Derek Miller, but we are also looking for them to continue to improve in the pass-catching department."

Tommy Galt is another young player who will get a look this spring. He is a hard-working player who could challenge in the big tight end role in time.

Wide Receiver

If there is one spot that could legitimately be listed as a question mark this spring, it is wide receiver. That statement has nothing to do with the numbers and talent at the position; it simply has to do with a lack of experience as Maryland lost its top three receivers last year to graduation.

Drew Weatherly is the unit's only senior and the team's top returning wide receiver with 10 receptions a year ago. Weatherly gives the Terps a big target and a possession receiver, meaning most everything about him is in direct contrast with the majority of what remains (young, extremely speedy and unproven).

Though unproven, what does remain is pure talent and a lot of it. Isaiah Williams, Terrell Skinner, Derrius Heyward-Bey and Nolan Carroll all bring some ideal characteristics to the outside (X and Z) spots. Williams and Heyward-Bey are both tall and have sprinter's speed. Skinner and Carroll are both speedy as well, but also have what Friedgen calls a defensive back's mentality. They are tough and will help the team excel whether the ball is in their hands or not. It was quite a foursome to have landed in one recruiting class.

The fifth player from the class who will be a factor is Danny Oquendo, another tough kid who also has sprinter's speed (had the fourth-best time in the 60m high hurdles as a prep in 2005). Oquendo posted a team-high 10 special teams tackles in his true freshman season and will replace Jo Jo Walker as Maryland's starting slot receiver. He caught three balls last year and will likely have gained confidence from the 11 games he played in his first season.

Two veterans who will get a look this season are senior Greg Powell and sophomore Matt Goldberg. Both players are crafty and have the comfort level in the system that the youngsters likely do not. Both have also made plays in past spring games and scrimmages and could work their way into playing time this year. Powell was a solid performer on special teams last year and, like Oquendo, will get a look in the slot. Joining him there will be Stephen Smalls, a player whose focus as an incoming freshman will be simply learning the system.

"We are young, but I think we have a lot of talent," said Friedgen. "We have as much speed as we have had since I have been here, and it got better at the end of the season with Nolan Carroll getting over his injury. I think we have some tough guys, too, with Carroll, Skinner and Oquendo."

Offensive Line

Last season, the offensive line probably looked a good deal what the team would like to see happen at receiver. The Terps were young and inexperienced – especially after the loss of their top returnee – but as the season progressed, they got better and better and what was once a sore spot may now be the strength of the team.

At tackle, the Terrapins have both youth and experience and are deeper and more talented than they have been in Friedgen's tenure. Juniors Brandon Nixon and Scott Burley (who will be healthy and likely much improved) will start off spring competing at right tackle. Both are talented and a healthy Burley brings an intimidating force with enough skill to challenge Nixon's status as the starter, despite his solid first year in the role.

On the left side, Jared Gaither proved in his first season that, barring catastrophe, he will be a star in the ACC, starting the season's final eight games without yielding a single sack. To say has size is an understatement (6-9, 340), but he also moves very well and is a natural football player. He moved to right tackles for part of the finale against NC State and showed the versatility that will give the Terrapins a number of options when it comes to a starting lineup. In addition, the return of Stephon Heyer from injury will only improve competition. Heyer was the team's top lineman entering 2005 before tearing his ACL in fall camp. He will be limited in spring, but gives Maryland arguably one of the best group of potential starting tackles to choose from in the ACC, if not the nation. Finally, a bulked-up Dane Randolph could be a factor and 2005 redshirt Zach Marshall will be thrown into the mix.

At guard, starters Andrew Crummey and Donnie Woods return, but Woods (the team's highest-graded lineman a year ago) will miss spring after surgery on his shoulder. In Woods' absence, sophomore Jaimie Thomas will get a good look at left guard with Lee Oliver and a newcomer to the offensive side, Jack Griffin, working in. Thomas is talented enough to challenge for a starting spot and the repetitions in spring should help him cut down on the mistakes that seem to plague him at times.

On the right side, Crummey has been a solid player who plays intelligently and as mistake-free (just one missed assignment every 53 plays in 2005) as any Terp. He will be backed up by junior Garrick Clig, a good run blocker who saw action on special teams last year but will be looking for more playing time on offense.

Possibly the key to the offensive line and the lone spot where a starter does not return from last year will be the center position. Sophomore Edwin Williams got a good deal of playing time last season, but struggled with assignment errors. He has good size and moves well, and if he can figure things out from a mental standpoint, the Terps will be in good shape at the position. Second-year player Phil Costa showed enough promise last year that he traveled to every away game and his progress in his first season suggests he will be an asset to the team whether it is at center or guard.

"We have 14 kids on scholarship and I think all of them have a chance to play," said Friedgen. "A big key this year will be how we come out at center. Edwin Williams can give us the type of player we are looking for there if he can eliminate some of the mistakes, but we are deep at tackle and guard. Last season, we learned we have a lot of versatility to go along with talent."

Defensive Line

The Terps were solid on the defensive line last year, but will be looking to get more athletic this season. With no newcomers arriving this spring, that order would seem tall, but it is not at all unreasonable. The team did not lose a single lineman from last year and several young players are waiting in the wings who could help change the whole dynamic and who goes where.

At defensive end, Jeremy Navarre returns after a true freshman season that showed promise. Navarre plays with good leverage and showed that he could do one of either two things from this point on. With improved quickness and closing speed, he will be a force at end or with improved strength, he could actually be versatile enough to play inside. There are no plans for the latter to take place, but his youth, room to grow and ability to move larger players make that a possible option.

Competing with Navarre for playing time this year will be junior Omarr Savage, a strong pass rusher who played well when given time toward the end of the season, and sophomore Mack Frost, a player who should be ready to blossom. Deege Galt will also look to factor in while the possibility exists that a couple of the younger players who will start spring lining up at LEO make the move if they have gotten bigger. Overall, defensive end and the goal of added athleticism is what could affect the entire line.

At defensive tackle, the Terps have an athletic player and just hope that his progress will continue. Junior Dre Moore has started each of the last two seasons slow, but by season's end was opening eyes with his combination of quickness and strength. At almost 300 pounds, he is impressively one of the team's top five strongest players, pound-for-pound. Moore will be backed up by hard-working Dennis Marsh and second-year player Travis Ivey. Ivey is short on experience, but if his adjustment to the college game and what it takes to be successful continues to improve, the team could have a player to watch.

Conrad Bolston returns for his senior season at nose tackle and gives the line an honors candidate coming off of his finest season. Bolston led the team in sacks (5.0) last year, holds the point of attack yet plays the run well and is without question one of the key players to next season's success. Behind him is junior Carlos Feliciano, a player who will not likely put up spectacular numbers but is very good at holding the point and occupying blockers, making other players better.

"I would like for us to get a little more athletic on the defensive line," said Friedgen. "A guy like Dre Moore I would hope would come on and mature, fulfilling his potential. Conrad should have a great senior year and I thought he played very well last year. But on the whole, we are going to put our best three guys on the field and spring will probably give us a better idea of who goes where because we do have some younger players at end and some at LEO who could possibly move."

CONRAD BOLSTON

Linebacker

One of the most interesting spots on the Maryland roster will be LEO this year. Like defensive end, it could affect other spots if some of the younger players mature into something different than the position where they started their careers. But moreover, it is interesting because more than any other position, it has a plethora of young talented players.

The LEO position at Maryland is a tough one to fill because of the number of responsibilities a player has. Run support, pass rush and coverage are all necessary and it takes a special blend of strength and athleticism to fill the role. Before this year, it was hard at times to find one player to play it effectively. This year, the team has three or four players it is excited about.

Trey Covington had a strong first year and returns as the starter. Just a sophomore, coaches feel he is a player to watch and gives the team the type of pass rusher it desires. Junior Jermaine Lemons had his most productive season last year and excels in run support. Redshirt freshmen Barrod Heggs and Jared Harrell will be looking to compete for playing time as well. Both players move well, have gotten bigger and stronger, and still have room to grow. Heggs is a player who looked good enough to play last season but coaches chose to redshirt him early and stuck to that commitment. He is the type of player who could move to end if he continues to progress physically.

"We are probably better now at LEO than we have ever been," said Friedgen. "We almost have a logjam. There are so many players at the position, but that isn't a bad thing. A lot of young kids, but it will be interesting to watch it pan out in the spring."

In five years, two players have played the "Mike" linebacker position at Maryland – E.J. Henderson and D'Qwell Jackson. Between the pair, there exists three ACC Defensive Player of the Year trophies in the Terp trophy case. Who is next in line will be heavily-scrutinized.

Wesley Jefferson heads into the spring as the starter and has a firm grip on the position. Jefferson is a player who is never going to "wow" anybody with his testing numbers off the field, but what he exemplifies is a football player. He might not run the fastest 40-yard dash, but he will be the first player to the ball. He might not post the highest bench press, but he will put as punishing of a hit on an opposing ball carrier as any player on the field. As was said three years ago when Jackson became the starter, Maryland will likely not miss a beat with him in the lineup.

Behind Jefferson are a group of outstanding young players. Sophomore Chase Bullock will be in the mix both at linebacker and special teams (kick coverage) and will be working to stave off challenges from redshirt freshman Marvin Peoples and true frosh Chris Clinton, both Florida products. Peoples does not meet the ideal physical characteristics one would look for, but as Friedgen states: "I just think that when it's all said and done, you are going to find yourself saying 'gosh, he's a productive player.'" Clinton arrives for an early look in spring and early indications are that he is physically more advanced than what was originally believed. There is no doubt he can run.

On the strong side, David Holloway is the lone returnee to the linebacking corps and gives the team a solid, effort guy whose production will be a given. Behind him will be second-year player Dave Philistin, an active, athletic player who played well last year as a true freshman both at linebacker and on special teams. He is the future of the position. Another second-year player, Jeff Clement, will also get a look after a solid first season on the practice squad.

WESLEY JEFFERSON

PROSPECTUS

At weakside linebacker, the return of Erin Henderson is eagerly anticipated. Henderson injured his knee in fall camp last year but has worked so that he is able to play with no limitations this spring. If he can return to the form he had last spring and early in fall, he could be one of the surprises in the ACC as he makes plays all over the field. Behind Henderson is another surprise in junior Moises Fokou. Fokou redshirted last year after transferring from Frostburg State and was scout team player of the week three times and earning the praises of coaches for his efforts on a regular basis. Another player who could factor in if injury is not an issue is Rick Costa, brother of Phil, who transferred from Temple before last season. Costa is an athletic, physical player who was opening eyes before sustaining an injury to his left shoulder.

"I watched Wesley on film this offseason, and he is much more athletic on the field than any off-field numbers would show," said Friedgen. "I think we will get two real good years out of him. We will be in good shape at 'Sam' with Holloway and we are hoping Erin Henderson comes around and is where he was at this time last year. Erin has done a great job and is a real tough kid."

Defensive Back

Tim Banks moves over from inside linebackers to coach the secondary this year and he will have a few things to figure out with the departure of Gerrick McPhearson and Milton Harris, who was a tremendous surprise to the team at his safety spot last year.

The Terps are set at field corner with Josh Wilson on board for his senior season. A postseason honors candidate, Wilson is a good cover guy and a tremendous open-field tackler. Behind him will be sophomore Kevin Barnes and redshirt freshman Anthony Wiseman. Both run well and Barnes saw playing time and performed well at times last year, but both have areas in which to improve to see increased playing time behind Wilson.

On the other side, the versatile Isaiah Gardner enters spring as the starter. Gardner, who can also play safety and be moved around in nickel and dime sets, will get competition from Richard Taylor, a third-year player who has steadily gotten faster and better in his tenure at Maryland. After missing his first year due to injury and struggling at times to pick up the system since, Taylor has since improved and could be fighting for a spot if his improvement continues. Redshirt freshman Jamari McCullough will also be working with his sites set on earning playing time.

JOSH WILSON

At strong safety, Marcus Wimbush enters the season as the starter with promising youngster Jeff Allen nipping at his heels. Wimbush had his best year as a Terrapin last year and has improved his cover skills while Allen showed the instinct and talent that have members of the coaching staff thinking his time is not far off. Hunter Reddick, a transfer from Navy before last season, will also be a factor.

Christian Varner returns as the starter at free safety. The heady, hard-hitting performer will be backed up by J.J. Justice, a junior who might be better suited to the strong safety spot in Chris Cosh's system. He will start the spring back at free safety, but has the size and speed the Terps hope will be more of a factor this season.

"One of the things Coach Cosh does is really involve safeties in run support, so that will make some opportunities for a guy like Justice," said Friedgen. "But overall, we are in pretty good shape and just need to figure out where some guys are going to play. It would be very helpful if we could find some depth out of some of our younger guys. If we don't have that, it might affect us in our nickel and dime, which we like to play."

Specialists

Maryland is set at punter and in the snaps with the return of Adam Podlesh (the league's leading returning punter and an All-American hopeful), long snapper Andrew Schmitt and short snapper Brendan McDermond, who had no errant snaps between them last season.

At kicker, Dan Ennis will look to return to the form that had him start the season -- his first as a starter -- with 11-straight successful attempts in 2005. He will be challenged by Obi Egekeze and Chris Roberts, two players who will also be looking to upgrade the team's efforts in kickoffs this year. Egekeze is now completely healthy and should be more of a factor than he was after injuring his thigh in a preseason scrimmage last year.

"We need to improve on our kickoffs and placekicking," said Friedgen.

"Ennis did a nice job in the first half of the season, but we struggled down the stretch. With Adam, we are in real good shape so our focus will be more on the kicking game."

ADAM PODLESH

SPRING NOTEBOOK

The Terrapins will open their 2006 offseason workouts on April 1st. The team will work its 15 practice sessions culminating with the 2006 Red/White spring game, which will take place at Byrd Stadium on April 29th at 4:00 p.m. Admission to the game is free. Information on the game -- one of the centerpieces of the university's "Maryland Day" -- and activities surrounding it can be found on www.umterps.com as gameday nears.

TURNOVER LOW

- The Terps' turnover from last season is very low compared to recent campaigns. There were key losses in the departure of All-Americans D'Qwell Jackson and NFL early-entry Vernon Davis, but the team will not look much different than it did a year ago. In fact, the Terps have added some players who would have started (or at least played a significant role) last season.
- Maryland returns 16 starters from last year (seven offense, seven defense, both specialists). It has an offensive line which lost just one starter (a player who only started his senior season) and a defense that lost a total of just four lettermen.
- Significant returnees for the Terps include offensive tackle Stephon Heyer, tailback Josh Allen and linebacker Erin Henderson. It is safe to say that the first two would have been honors candidates if not sidelined by injury last year (all three had knee injuries). The third, Henderson, was one of the most exciting players in spring and fall camp last year before he went down.
- Of Friedgen's first five years on the job, this season will mark the first that the Terrapins will return every starter from the year before on the defensive line.

SPEAKING OF ALL-AMERICANS

- It may have been lost in the postseason shuffle, but in having two players -- Jackson and Davis -- named first team All-Americans last year, the team had quite a feat, especially in light of its 5-6 finish. Prior to 2005, Maryland never had two AFCA first team All-Americans in the same season and the last time it had two on any list was 1974 when DT Randy White and PK Steve Mike-Mayer were chosen by The Sporting News.
- On an even more surprising note, Davis became the first Terp on the offensive side of the ball chosen to the Associated Press All-American first team since 1955 (Bob Pelligrini).

NEW FACES, NEW PLACES

- Four players are joining the Terrapins for the first time this spring -- LB Chris Clinton, TB Morgan Green, QB Josh Portis and WR Stephen Smalls. Of the four, only Portis will not be eligible to play next season (NCAA transfer rules).
- In the past, the Terps have been aided by freshmen who were able to attend classes in the spring and work with the team. Some notables who saw success enrolling early are current Denver Bronco Domonique Foxworth, starting guard Donnie Woods, starting safety Christian Varner and defensive end Jeremy Navarre, who started last year as a true freshman.
- As of February 28, Maryland had not named an offensive coordinator to replace Charlie Taaffe and head coach Ralph Friedgen had been wearing the hat of offensive coordinator while the search continued. Following the last game of 2005, Gary Blackney retired from coaching and was replaced by Chris Cosh. Cosh will handle overseeing the defensive unit and coaching inside linebackers while Tim Banks, a former defensive back, will move over to coach the secondary.

RETURNING FIREPOWER

- Though the Terps have lost the bulk of their receiving yards with the departure of Vernon Davis and senior receivers Derrick Fenner, Jo Jo Walker and Danny Melendez, the team is not without a healthy dose of players who have put up numbers in the past.
- Between Sam Hollenbach, Lance Ball and Josh Allen, the Terps return 2,768 passing yards, 2,729 rushing yards and 44 touchdowns (13 passing, 29 rushing, two receiving).
- Allen will enter the 2006 season with 21 career rushing touchdowns, sixth-most in school history. If he were to match his season-high of eight (achieved in 2002 and 2003), he would finish his career ranked fourth all-time at Maryland (Rick Badanjek (1982-85) is the career leader with 44).

BURNIN' VERNON

- The last few years, the big question toward the end of spring when it came to former Terps was, "when would the drought end and Maryland produce a first-rounder?" Well, that question was answered last year when Shawne Merriman was selected with the 12th overall pick by the San Diego Chargers en route to being selected as the National Football League's Defensive Rookie of the Year.
- This season, it seems a near certainty that TE Vernon Davis will be the second Terp in as many years to be selected in the first round. The question is, how high? Davis showed the world what insiders at Maryland already knew at the NFL Combine in Indianapolis in late February when he posted the same amazing strength and speed numbers he recorded when donning a Terp uniform.

- At the combine, Davis blazed to a 4.38 time in the 40-yard dash, the fastest ever by a tight end at the combine, while benching 225 pounds 33 times and recording a 42-inch vertical jump. All were the best numbers posted by a tight end at the event this year.
- Davis has been mentioned as a probable Top 15 pick in this year's draft. The list of Maryland draft picks to go in the Top 15 are as follows: #2 Randy White, DT (Dallas 1975) and Jack Scarbath, QB (Washington 1953); #3 Bob Pelligrini, C (Philadelphia 1956); #5 Ed Modzelewski, Back (Pittsburgh 1952); #7 Joe Campbell, DE (New Orleans 1977); #10 Bernie Faloney, Back (San Francisco 1954); #11 Ed Vereb, Back (Washington 1956); and #12 Merriman, LB (San Diego 2005).

SEASON TICKET INFO

- Maryland has a seven-game home schedule in 2006 which features games against perennial national powers Florida State and Miami. Fans interested in purchasing season tickets can call the Terrapin Ticket office at (800) I-MA-TERP (800-462-8377) or e-mail at terptix@umd.edu. Season and single-game tickets (when available) can also be purchased online at UMTerps.com.

HEAD COACH RALPH FRIEDGEN

Ralph Friedgen, the second-winningest fifth-year head coach in Atlantic Coast Conference history, enters his sixth year at the University of Maryland with a reputation as one of the top minds in college football.

A long-time successful assistant coach at Georgia Tech, where he was credited with overseeing one of the nation's most potent offensive attacks, Friedgen continues to build a new level of pride and glory to his alma mater's football program, guiding the Terps to a 41-20 record and a trio of major bowl appearances – including two decisive wins -- in his five seasons as a collegiate head coach.

Not only do his 41 wins match the mark of Terp legend Jerry Claiborne in his first five years. They also fall just shy of the all-time ACC mark of 44, set by Clemson's Danny Ford in the early '80s. In addition, in his first three seasons at the helm of the Terrapin program, Friedgen became the first coach in conference lore to lead a team to three-straight seasons of 10 wins or more while his 36 wins in his first four years ranked him in the top 10 in NCAA history, surpassing the fourth year marks of coaches such as Frank Leahy and Joe Paterno.

The consensus national Coach of the Year in 2001 after leading Maryland to its first ACC championship since 1985, Friedgen and Company have returned Maryland to prominence on the national scene. The Terrapins have won more games (41) in the five seasons under Friedgen than they had in the 10 seasons prior to his arrival (37).

Long overlooked as a head-coaching candidate, the 1970 Maryland graduate was tapped as the Terps' head football coach following the 2000 season, and he wasted no time in returning the program to the glory days it achieved when Friedgen was an assistant to Bobby Ross in the 1980s.

Five years ago, in his first season as the Terps' grid boss, Maryland won its first seven games and eventually halted Florida State's reign as perennial ACC champion, earning the league's automatic berth in the Bowl Championship Series' FedEx Orange Bowl. In 2002, despite a 1-2 start and without 19 seniors from the previous year, the Terps made their way back to a major bowl game, winning 10 of their last 11 games and finishing in a tie for second in the ACC. The 2003 campaign provided a bit of déjà vu for Friedgen and the Terrapins as they again started 1-2, and again ran off 10 wins in their final 11 games to earn a second New Year's bowl bid in three years.

Friedgen's Terps have gone to bowl games in three of five seasons, participating in the BCS Orange Bowl his first year before posting lopsided victories over Tennessee (30-3) in the Chick-fil-A Peach Bowl and over West Virginia (41-7) in the Toyota Gator Bowl.

His offensive success notwithstanding, Friedgen's teams at Maryland have been superb on defense, ranking among the nation's leaders annually while producing the ACC's Defensive Player of the Year in three of the last five seasons (E.J. Henderson in 2001 and 2002; D'Qwell Jackson in 2005).

Named the winner of the Frank Broyles Award as the top assistant coach in the country in 1999 while at Tech, Friedgen brought 32 years of assistant coaching experience (including 21 as an offensive coordinator either in college or the NFL) with him in his return to College Park.

The 59-year-old Friedgen (pronounced FREE-jun) owns the rare distinction of coordinating the offense for both a collegiate national champion (Georgia Tech in 1990) and a Super Bowl team (San Diego in 1994).

Friedgen spent 20 seasons with the aforementioned Ross in coaching stops at The Citadel, Maryland, Georgia Tech and the NFL's San Diego Chargers. He returned to Tech in 1997, where he served another successful stint as offensive coordinator and quarterbacks coach under good friend George O'Leary.

A 1970 graduate of Maryland, where he earned a degree in physical education, Friedgen launched his coaching career as a graduate assistant before heading off to a series of jobs that included The Citadel (1973-79), William & Mary (1980) and Murray State (1981). In '82, he returned to Maryland as offensive coordinator and offensive line coach under Ross, with Friedgen's tenure lasting until 1986. During that stretch, the Terps captured three consecutive ACC championships (1983-85) and played in four bowl games. All told, the Terrapins were 39-15-1 from 1982-86 and won two bowl games (the Sun Bowl in 1984 and the Cherry Bowl in 1985). It is the type of success Friedgen has re-instilled in his current group of Terrapins.

The Ross-Friedgen connection began in 1973, when Ross hired the former Maryland offensive guard as defensive line coach at The Citadel. Friedgen spent seven seasons at The Citadel, the last three as offensive coordinator and offensive line coach.

He then worked one season (1980) as offensive coordinator at William & Mary and one season (1981) as assistant head coach at Murray State before Ross tapped him to be his offensive coordinator at Maryland in 1982.

During his five-year stay at Maryland under Ross, Friedgen was instrumental in the development of future pro quarterbacks Boomer Esiason, Frank Reich and Stan Gelbaugh, all of whom spent at least 10 seasons in the National Football League. Esiason played professionally from 1984-97, Reich from 1985-98 and Gelbaugh from 1986-95.

Friedgen followed Ross to Georgia Tech in 1987, becoming the Yellow Jackets' offensive coordinator and quarterbacks coach for the next five seasons, including the 1990 campaign when Tech, unranked in the preseason, captured the national championship with an 11-0-1 record. The national title came just two years after the Jackets had posted back-to-back seasons of three wins or less.

When Ross was named head coach of the San Diego Chargers in 1992, he tapped Friedgen to serve as running game coordinator for two seasons (1992-93) before elevating him to offensive coordinator in 1994, when the Chargers advanced to the Super Bowl for the first time in franchise history. During his time with the Chargers, Friedgen helped a club that had not made the playoffs in a decade reach postseason play three times in five seasons.

Known for developing balanced offensive attacks with multiple looks, Tech was one of only two teams in the country in 1999 to average at least 200 yards rushing and 200 yards passing. Tech also accomplished the feat under Friedgen's guidance in 1990, '91 and '98. The 1999 team, with the diminutive Joe Hamilton at quarterback, set 59 school records, rewriting many marks established by the 1990 national championship team, which was led by another Friedgen pupil, Shawn Jones (1989-92). Friedgen was a finalist for the Broyles Award as the nation's top assistant coach in 1998 when the Rambling Wreck set a then-school record with 50 touchdowns.

The first Maryland alum since Bob Ward (1967-68) to serve as the Terps' head football coach, Friedgen originally came to Maryland as a quarterback in the mid-'60s and spent most of his career as an offensive lineman, lettering in 1966 and '68 and capturing Academic All-ACC honors. He was a two-time winner of the George C. Cook Memorial Award (1968-69) for having the highest academic average on the football team.

Friedgen's coaching roots run deep. His father, also named Ralph (though not a "Sr."), was a high school coach for more than 30 years and masterminded, among other teams, the 1964 Westchester County (N.Y.) High School team that went undefeated and averaged 44 points per game running what was then an unusual multiple offense. It was an offense run by a 190-pound quarterback later recruited by Maryland who shared his name. Maybe as a sign of things to come, the younger Ralph called all of his team's offensive plays from his junior year on.

Friedgen and his wife, the former Gloria Spina, have three daughters: Kelley, Kristina and Katie. Gloria is currently serving as an adjunct professor at the University of Maryland; Kelley is in her first year as an associate at Arnold and Porter in D.C., specializing in pharmaceutical and medical device law; Kristina is in her second year in the theater program at Maryland; and Katie will be attending her first year of college in the fall of 2006.

2006 RECRUITING CLASS

University of Maryland head football coach Ralph Friedgen announced the signing of 22 recruits for the 2006 season on February 1.

This year's class features two quarterbacks, two tailbacks, five wide receivers, one offensive lineman, one tight end, one defensive lineman, four linebackers, four defensive backs and two players who are listed as possibilities on either side of the ball.

The accomplishments of this year's crop of incoming Terrapins include:

- Eight players named All-American or "Dream Team" (PrepStar, SuperPrep)
- 17 all-region selections (PrepStar, SuperPrep)
- 10 players picked in the top 25 nationally at their position (ESPN.com, Rivals.com)
- The No. 2 Prep School recruit in the nation (Rivals.com) and 2005's No. 1 defensive end (ESPN.com)
- The No. 1 player in the state of Connecticut (Rivals.com)
- The No. 2 player in the state of West Virginia (Rivals.com)
- The New Jersey state Defensive Player of the Year (Newark Star-Ledger)
- The fifth-ranked dual-threat quarterback in the nation (Rivals.com)

The class again sticks to the guidelines Friedgen laid out in his first year in College Park as the Mid-Atlantic region is well represented (eight players from the state of Maryland, one from Virginia), while top players from all over the country have also signed with the Terrapins. Also represented are the states of Pennsylvania (3), Florida (2), New Jersey (1), South Carolina (1), West Virginia (1), Connecticut (1), North Carolina (1), Washington, D.C. (1), Michigan (1) and the first known Terrapin from the state of Colorado (1).

Sept. 3, 2005 at Baltimore

Maryland 23, Navy 20

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP)— Sam Hollenbach threw an 11-yard touchdown pass to Drew Weatherly with 61 seconds left, capping a frantic 82-yard drive that carried Maryland past Navy in a game played at M&T Bank Stadium in Baltimore.

Hollenbach went 19-for-30 for 217 yards, and Mario Merrills ran for 149 yards on 30 carries to help Maryland recover from an early 11-point deficit in the opener for both teams.

After a 6-yard touchdown run by Matt Hall gave Navy a 20-15 lead with 4:43 left, Hollenbach brought the Terrapins back. The key play came just before the touchdown, when Lance Ball took a short pass on a fourth-and-8 from the Navy 31 and slipped several tackles during a 20-yard gain.

Hollenbach then fired the winning pass to Weatherly in the middle of the end zone before Merrills ran in the conversion.

A crowd of 67,809 nearly filled the Baltimore Ravens' stadium for the first meeting between the teams since 1965.

Hollenbach, who won the starting job during spring practice, threw two early interceptions that allowed Navy to take a 14-3 lead. But he and Merrills got the Terrapins' offense going in the second half, and Maryland's defense permitted only six points over the final three quarters.

Hall scored two touchdowns, and quarterback Lamar Owens ran for 122 yards for the Midshipmen.

Midway through the third quarter, the Terrapins launched a 58-yard drive that produced Dan Ennis' third field goal, a 40-yarder that cut Navy's lead to 14-9 with 6 seconds left in the period. Merrills ran for 45 yards on six carries during the march.

The Terrapins later had taken the lead for the first time, on a 12-yard run by Merrills with 9:15 to go.

Owens ran for 80 yards and passed for 73 in the first half, and Navy scored touchdowns on its first two possessions in taking a 14-6 halftime lead.

After Ennis kicked a 26-yard field goal to cap a 66-yard opening drive, Navy answered with a 12-play, 80-yard drive that ended with a 3-yard touchdown run by Matt Hall. The Midshipmen converted four third downs, including a 37-yard pass from Owens to Jason Tomlinson on third-and-5 from the Navy 25.

The Terrapins' next possession ended with an interception by Navy linebacker Jake Biles. The Midshipmen promptly moved 50 yards in six plays, taking a 14-3 lead on a 7-yard run by Marco Nelson on the final play from scrimmage in the first quarter.

No.25 Clemson 28, Maryland 24

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP)— Reggie Merriweather scored his second touchdown on a 38-yard run with 2:58 remaining, capping a furious fourth-quarter rally that carried Clemson past Maryland.

Clemson (2-0, 1-0 Atlantic Coast Conference) trailed 24-14 before Charlie Whitehurst's second touchdown pass to Curtis Baham cut the deficit to three points with 7:35 remaining.

After a punt by Maryland, Whitehurst directed a 61-yard drive that concluded on Merriweather's winning carry around right end.

Whitehurst went 18-for-22 for 178 yards. With Clemson down by 10, he took the Tigers 86 yards in five plays, including an outstanding long pass to Baham that covered the final 51 yards.

Sam Hollenbach went 18-for-28 for 288 yards and two touchdowns for Maryland (1-1, 0-1). His main target was Vernon Davis, who had six catches for 140 yards and a touchdown.

Clemson took a 14-10 lead in the third quarter on a 6-yard touchdown pass from Whitehurst to Baham. The 63-yard drive followed an interception by Tye Hill and was aided by two personal foul calls against Maryland.

The Terrapins came right back, using a 29-yard TD pass from Hollenbach to Davis to go up 17-14. The play capped an 80-yard drive in which Davis caught a 30-yarder on a third-and-7 from the Maryland 23.

After Clemson punted, Hollenbach deftly engineered a 63-yard drive in which he went 5-for-5 for 57 yards. After completing a 25-yard swing pass to tight end Dan Gronkowski on fourth-and-1 from the Clemson 31, Hollenbach averted pressure in the pocket and flipped a 3-yard TD pass to Joey Haynos, the sophomore's first career reception.

Hollenbach went 5-for-9 for 126 yards in the first half, helping Maryland take a 10-7 lead.

Clemson appeared stopped on its opening possession when Whitehurst fumbled a snap and inadvertently dropped to one knee on a third-and-3 from his 32. But Maryland was called for unsportsmanlike conduct, giving the Tigers a first down.

Merriweather ultimately concluded the 17-play drive with a fourth-down touchdown run from the 1. The Tigers held the ball for 9 minutes, 47 seconds - the longest drive in Clemson history.

The Terrapins answered with a field goal, then took advantage of a Clemson miscue to take a 10-7 lead.

The Tigers were prepared to punt when the snap soared over the head of Cole Chason, who chased down the ball and was tackled on his 2. On fourth down, Hollenbach scored on a sneak.

Sept. 17, 2005

West Virginia 31, Maryland 19

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — Backup quarterback Pat White directed three fourth-quarter touchdown drives, and West Virginia rushed for 301 yards in a victory over the Terrapins before 52,413, the seventh-largest crowd in Byrd Stadium history.

Freshman Jason Gwaltney scored two touchdowns for the Mountaineers (3-0), who had lost three straight at Maryland (1-2) since 1997. West Virginia let a 15-point lead dwindle to 21-19 before Gwaltney scored on a 15-yard run with 4:56 left.

The Mountaineers then recovered a fumble by Maryland quarterback Sam Hollenbach, and Pat McAfee kicked a 40-yard field goal to make it 31-19 with 2:18 remaining.

Holding a 7-6 lead late in the third quarter, WVU went on an 80-yard scoring drive. Darius Reynaud gained 27 yards on a reverse, and Owen Schmitt capped the march with a 3-yard TD run with 14:52 remaining.

Schmitt had runs of 20 and 34 yards on the Mountaineers' next series, and Pernell Williams scored from the 1 to make it 21-6.

The lead held up - barely.

The Terrapins began their comeback with a 73-yard touchdown throw from Hollenbach to tight end Vernon Davis with 10:22 left. Davis caught the medium-length pass at the right sideline and easily outran the Mountaineers to the end zone.

Antonio Lewis fumbled away the kickoff, and Hollenbach converted the mistake into a 12-yard touchdown pass to Jo Jo Walker. But the conversion pass failed.

Hollenbach went 20-for-31 for 291 yards. Davis caught five passes for 158 yards, but the Terrapins could muster only 50 yards rushing against a defense that entered the game ranked No. 1 in the nation in yards allowed (128.5).

The Mountaineers led 7-3 at halftime.

Faced with a third-and-10 from his own 3 on the first play of the second quarter, Bednarik completed a 48-yard pass to Brandon Myles. It was his only throw on the 15-play drive, which ended on a 1-yard touchdown run by Gwaltney for a 7-0 lead.

Walker returned the ensuing kickoff 57 yards to the West Virginia 36, but the drive fizzled when Maryland was stopped on a fourth-and-1 from the 27.

Late in the half, a 27-yard completion from Hollenbach to Danny Melendez set up a 33-yard field goal by Dan Ennis.

Maryland closed to 7-6 in the third quarter when Ennis kicked a 34-yard field goal four plays after the Terrapins converted a fourth-and-6 from the West Virginia 35. Hollenbach was 3-for-3 for 40 yards on the 45-yard drive.

Sept. 24, 2005
Maryland 22, Wake Forest 12

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) -- Josh Wilson returned a fumble 20 yards for a touchdown to lead Maryland's solid defensive effort in a win over Wake Forest.

Keon Lattimore ran for 76 yards and the only offensive touchdown for the Terrapins (2-2, 1-1 Atlantic Coast Conference), who continued their recent dominance against the Demon Deacons (1-3, 0-1). Maryland has won seven straight in the series.

Chris Barclay ran for 86 yards and a touchdown for Wake Forest, which fell behind 13-0 in the first half and never recovered.

Wake Forest came into the game averaging better than 270 yards rushing, tops in the conference and eighth-best in the nation. Micah Andrews led the league and ranked fourth nationally at 153 yards per game, while Barclay was coming off a 210-yard, four-touchdown game against East Carolina - part of a 407-yard rushing day for the Demon Deacons.

Meanwhile, the Terrapins came in rated last in the league in rushing defense after allowing West Virginia to run for 301 yards in last week's loss.

But things looked quite different Saturday for both teams, a welcome sight for the Terps.

Maryland allowed Wake Forest 111 yards rushing and 244 total yards, while recovering two fumbles and holding the Demon Deacons to 5-for-19 on third-down conversions. And except for Barclay's 4-yard scoring run late in the third, Wake Forest's offense seemed out of rhythm all day.

Andrews, meanwhile, wasn't a factor, finishing with six carries for 23 yards - all in the first half. He also had a costly fumble when he was hit from behind while scrambling for yards in the second quarter.

Wilson ran in and scooped up the loose ball in stride, racing down the left sideline for the touchdown and a 10-0 lead with 4 minutes left in the half. The Terrapins increased that lead on Dan Ennis' second field goal with 1:50 left, and led 13-3 at halftime after Sam Swank got the Demon Deacons on the board with a 42-yard kick on the final play of the half.

Wake Forest closed to within 16-10 on Barclay's run, but got no closer. The Terrapins responded two possessions later with a 77-yard touchdown drive, getting a 33-yard pass from Sam Hollenbach to Danny Melendez to set up Lattimore's 3-yard run for a 22-10 lead with 13:19 left.

Oct. 1, 2005
Maryland 45, No.19/18 Virginia 33

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) - Lance Ball ran for 163 yards and scored two fourth-quarter touchdowns, and Maryland amassed 570 yards in offense to hand No. 19 Virginia its first defeat.

Sam Hollenbach went 25-for-33 for 320 yards and two touchdowns, and Danny Melendez had nine catches for 125 yards to lead the Terrapins (3-2, 2-1 Atlantic Coast Conference) to their third straight home win over Virginia (3-1, 1-1).

Marques Hagans threw for 270 yards and scored two rushing touchdowns for the Cavaliers, who also got four field goals from Connor Hughes. Chris Cook also returned an interception 30 yards for a touchdown, but it wasn't enough.

Seeking to reverse their fortunes at home after losses to Clemson and West Virginia, the Terps wore their alternate black jerseys for Homecoming. Maryland's offense was more of a factor than the uniform switch, but whatever the reason, the Terrapins avoided their first 0-3 start at home since 1993.

The Terrapins trailed 26-24 before a 44-yard pass from Hollenbach to Derrick Fenner set up a 14-yard touchdown run by Ball on the opening play of the fourth quarter. Maryland then forced the Cavaliers to punt for the first time since early in the first quarter.

Virginia appeared poised to get the ball back, but a pass interference call on Marcus Hamilton on a third-and-8 from the Maryland 8 extended the drive, and Ball ran in from the 35 to end the 94-yard march and put the Terrapins up 38-26 with 8:44 to go.

Hagans scored on a 3-yard run to pull Virginia to 38-33, but Maryland clinched the win with an 80-yard drive that concluded with Keon Lattimore's second touchdown run, a 1-yarder with 1:50 left.

Ball, who finished with 17 carries, ran for 93 yards in the first half to help Maryland take a 21-20 halftime lead.

After being intercepted on the Terrapins' second possession, Hollenbach capped a 62-yard drive with a 10-yard touchdown pass to Melendez. Hollenbach went 4-for-5 on the drive and also converted a fourth-and-1 from the Virginia 43 with a quarterback sneak.

The Cavaliers scored two touchdowns in a 71-second span to go up 14-7. After Hagans ran for an 11-yard score to complete a drive in which he accounted for 62 of 69 yards, Cook got his first career interception return for a touchdown.

Lattimore tied it with a 9-yard TD run, but Hughes put Virginia back in front with a 43-yard field goal.

After Hollenbach went 5-for-5 for 62 yards on an 88-yard march that ended with a 24-yard TD pass to Vernon Davis, Hughes kicked a 39-yard field goal to make it 21-20.

The back-and-forth duel continued into the third quarter. Maryland's Dan Ennis kicked a 45-yard field goal on the opening drive, and Hughes answered with 29-yarder to get Virginia back within a point.

The Cavaliers finally forced Maryland to punt, then took a 26-24 lead on Hughes' fourth field goal.

GAME 6

Oct. 8, 2005
Maryland 38, Temple 7

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. -- Mario Merrills ran for three touchdowns as Maryland ran its winning streak to three games by scoring 38 unanswered points in a non-conference victory at Temple played before 11,311 at Lincoln Financial Field.

Merrills led a trio of Terrapin rushers who gained at least 50 yards, as the Terps rolled up 220 yards and five touchdowns on the ground. The senior had 66 yards on 12 carries and scored three straight TDs for the Terps in the second and third quarters.

Lance Ball added 54 yards and a touchdown on 11 carries, while J.P. Humber came off the bench for 53 yards in his first four rushes of the year.

Maryland quarterback Sam Hollenbach completed 19 of 29 passes for 228 yards to lead the Terps, while Vernon Davis and Danny Melendez each had five catches.

Temple took advantage of a Maryland fumble in the first quarter and drove 38 yards for the opening score. Umar Ferguson, who led all rushers in the game with 96 yards on 25 carries, scored for the Owls from 2 yards out to give the hosts a lead with 4:15 left in the first quarter.

Maryland responded immediately with a 73-yard scoring drive to set up a 24-yard field goal by Dan Ennis, who had his string of successful field goals ended at 11 later in the game.

The Terps' next drive ended in an interception in the Temple end zone, but Maryland rallied later in the second quarter to go 66 yards in seven plays to set up a 6-yard touchdown by Merrills, giving the Terps the lead with 5:36 before halftime. Merrills scored on a 1-yard run to cap a 67-yard drive on Maryland's next possession and the Terps took a 17-7 lead into halftime.

Josh Wilson blocked a Temple punt on the opening possession of the second half, setup up the Terps at the Temple 45-yard line. From there, the Terps needed five plays to score, as Merrills went over from the 2.

Again, Maryland scored on its next possession, using a 22-yard punt return from Jo Jo Walker to set up a 31-yard scoring drive that ended on a 1-yard dive by Hollenbach.

Ball ended the Maryland scoring early in the fourth quarter on a 5-yard run.

The Terrapin defense, led by nine tackles each from William Kershaw and Wesley Jefferson, forced four second-half turnovers from the Owls. Senior linebacker D'Qwell Jackson, the leading tackler in the ACC coming into the game, did not play due to a leg injury.

No.3/3 Virginia Tech 28, Maryland 9

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) - Marcus Vick ran for a career-high 133 yards and a touchdown and a strong defensive performance from No. 3 Virginia Tech helped the unbeaten Hokies pull away in the second half for a 28-9 win in a Thursday Night game at Byrd Stadium.

Mike Imoh had two touchdowns for Virginia Tech (7-0, 4-0 Atlantic Coast Conference), which scored 21 straight points after halftime to keep alive its hopes of playing for the national championship in January. The Terrapins (4-3, 2-2) came in with a three-game winning streak.

Although he threw a career-high three interceptions - all in the third quarter - the little brother of Atlanta Falcons star Michael Vick rushed 16 times for 133 yards and completed 14 of 23 passes for 211 yards.

His 8-yard touchdown run in the second quarter made it 7-0, and he directed scoring drives of 81, 99 and 37 yards in the second half.

That was more than enough support for a defense that forced two turnovers and kept the Terrapins out of the end zone until Sam Hollenbach threw a 10-yard touchdown pass to Derrick Fenner with 2:16 to go.

Hollenbach was 14-of-30 for 158 yards and two interceptions, and Lance Ball had 75 yards rushing on 15 attempts.

The Terrapins were their alternate black jerseys for the second time this season, hoping for the same result as the last time: a 45-33 victory over Virginia on Oct. 1.

The Hokies scored on their first possession of the third quarter to take a 14-3 lead. A 38-yard run by Vick got Tech to the Maryland 31, and five plays later Imoh scored from the 2.

The teams then traded interceptions before Maryland missed a field goal attempt.

After the Terrapins failed to capitalize on Vick's third interception, a punt left Virginia Tech on its own 1. Ten plays later, Imoh ran in from the 10 to make it 21-3 with 10:45 left.

Brandon Ore added a 4-yard TD run with 6:47 to go.

Maryland threatened first, moving to the Tech 21 in the first quarter before James Anderson intercepted Hollenbach at the 12.

The Hokies ran only 11 plays and had minus-2 yards rushing during a scoreless first period, the only quarter this season in which Virginia Tech has failed to score.

Vick finally got the offense moving on Tech's third possession. He began an 80-yard drive with an 18-yard completion to David Clowney, then added four runs for 43 yards, including a sprint around right end for a touchdown.

The next time Tech got the ball, Vick completed a 48-yard pass to Clowney to set up a first-and-goal at the 7. On fourth down from the 1, Imoh lost possession of the ball while trying to dive over the top and Maryland recovered - the first time this season Tech lost a fumble.

The Terrapins then moved 73 yards in 13 plays before Ennis kicked a 38-yard field goal and Maryland was within 7-3 at halftime.

No.10/9 Florida St. 35, Maryland 27

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) - Drew Weatherford and James Coleman scored fourth-quarter touchdowns to lead No. 10 Florida State to a come-from-behind victory over Maryland.

Weatherford's 15-yard run with 8:52 left gave the Seminoles a 28-27 lead and they scored three minutes later on Coleman's 1-yard run. Coleman's score was set up by Ernie Sims' interception.

Maryland's final bid for a tie ended with 52 seconds left when Joel Statham was sacked by A.J. Nicholson at the Florida State 40.

The Seminoles avoided losing to the Terps for a second straight year.

Maryland (4-4, 2-3) scored 24 straight points midway through the game, building a 24-14 lead on Dan Ennis' 40-yard field goal three minutes into the second half.

But the Seminoles turned to their favorite weapon, freshman wide receiver Greg Carr, to get back into the game.

The 6-foot-6 Carr caught a 37-yard pass to the Maryland 1 and then, after two plays lost yards, he broke open in the end zone to snag a 4-yard scoring pass to cut Maryland's lead to 24-21.

After Ennis kicked a 35-yard field goal to start the fourth quarter and give the Terrapins a 27-21 lead, Carr was again center stage.

Leon Washington scored on a 3-yard run on Florida State's first offensive series and Willie Reid added a 61-yard punt return TD to give the Seminoles a 14-0 lead in the opening minute of the second quarter.

But Maryland countered with three touchdowns in a span of nine minutes to take a 21-14 halftime lead. Statham ran for a score and added touchdown passes covering 29 yards to Derrick Fenner and 20 yards to Jo Jo Walker.

Statham, who sparked Maryland's 20-17 victory over Florida State a year ago, completed 15 of 29 passes for 177 yards.

Weatherford, a redshirt freshman leading the ACC in passing, completed 27 of 37 passes for 264 yards, but was intercepted twice. Reid had seven catches for 90 yards and finished with 227 all purpose yards.

GAME 9

Nov. 12, 2005

Maryland 33, North Carolina 30 (ot)

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) - Dan Ennis kicked a 28-yard field goal in overtime to give Maryland a victory North Carolina.

The Terrapins (5-4, 3-3 Atlantic Coast Conference) bolstered their bowl hopes by rallying from a 10-point deficit with 9 minutes to play. Lance Ball ran for 161 yards and a touchdown, while Vernon Davis had seven catches for 139 yards and a score.

Connor Barth - who kicked the tying field goal with 9 seconds left in regulation - missed a 38-yarder in second part of the overtime for the Tar Heels (4-5, 3-3).

Matt Baker threw for 335 yards, while Jesse Holley had six catches for 115 yards for the Tar Heels.

Both teams came into Kenan Stadium needing the win for their postseason push. But Maryland leaves needing to beat either Boston College at home next week or win at North Carolina State in the season finale to earn its sixth win.

Sam Hollenbach threw two long touchdown passes - the second 80 yards to Danny Melendez - to help Maryland rally and take a 30-27 lead. The Tar Heels responded, moving 76 yards in the 2-minute drill to set up Barth's 24-yard field goal.

But after Ennis' kick to start the overtime, the Tar Heels had a chance to win the game when Holley headed alone for the end zone. But Baker's throw was late, and Gerrick McPhearson got there just in time to tip the ball away.

Barth - who kicked the game-winner on the final play of last year's upset of unbeaten Miami - then trotted on the field looking for his fourth field goal. But a high snap appeared to take him out of rhythm, and the kick went wide right as the Terrapins spilled on the field in celebration.

The Tar Heels led 20-17 when Baker connected with a diving Mike Mason for a 19-yard touchdown late in the third quarter, and Kareen Taylor returned an interception 25 yards for a touchdown and a 27-17 lead with 9:07 left in the fourth.

But Hollenbach led the Terps to a quick response. Facing a third-and-long, the quarterback sidestepped an oncoming rusher and hit Jo Jo Walker deep for a 67-yard touchdown. Then, after a North Carolina punt, Hollenbach again went deep, this time to Melendez for the long score down the right sideline and a 30-27 lead.

Ennis hit the left upright on this point after, which would have given the Terps a four-point lead. That allowed North Carolina to force the overtime on Barth's kick.

No. 23/23 Boston Coll. 31, Maryland 16

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) - Jolonn Dunbar scored on a 94-yard fumble return, Ray Henderson took an interception 35 yards for a touchdown, and the No. 23 Boston College Eagles overcame four turnovers but forced four from Maryland in a victory.

BC got two touchdowns apiece from its offense and defense.

Matt Ryan completed 16 of 24 passes for 230 yards, and Andre Callender had 121 yards rushing for the Eagles, who never trailed in their regular-season finale.

Playing in its first year in the Atlantic Coast Conference, Boston College (8-3, 5-3) finished tied with Florida State atop the Atlantic Division. But the Seminoles will advance to the title game by virtue of their 28-17 win over the Eagles in September.

Lance Ball ran for 135 yards and a touchdown for Maryland (5-5, 3-4), which still needs one win to become eligible to receive a bowl bid. The Terrapins conclude the regular season next week at NC State.

Dunbar's school-record fumble return gave Boston College a 14-0 lead in the first quarter. The sophomore linebacker picked up the ball in stride and sprinted down the right sideline, outdistancing Maryland wide receiver Danny Melendez, who was screened by BC safety Larry Anam.

Henderson's touchdown came with 4:36 left after the Terrapins closed to 24-16.

Maryland quarterback Sam Hollenbach went 25-for-45 for 230 yards and a touchdown.

Boston College also gave the ball away four times, but the Terrapins didn't capitalize on their takeaways as well as the Eagles.

The Terrapins trailed 14-10 at halftime, and after a scoreless third quarter, Boston College went up 21-10 on a 1-yard touchdown run by L.V. Whitworth with 10:57 left.

A 65-yard run by Ball set up a 7-yard touchdown pass from Hollenbach to Vernon Davis, and after a Boston College field goal, Henderson made his victory-clinching play.

The Eagles took the opening kickoff and moved 79 yards in eight plays to take a 7-0 lead. After Whitworth ran four times for 19 yards and gained 34 yards on a screen pass, Callender scored on a 14-yard run.

Josh Wilson blocked a punt for Maryland at the end of the Eagles' next possession, and the Terrapins advanced to the 5 before Dunbar picked up a fumble on a third-down play.

Another mistake by the Eagles' special teams enabled Maryland to close to 14-7. After Dejuan Tribble fumbled a punt at the BC 20, Hollenbach completed a 14-yard pass to Melendez on third-and-10 before Ball ran it in from the 6.

Minutes later, Maryland botched an excellent chance to pull even. Hollenbach moved the Terps 56 yards to the BC 8, then threw a pass in the end zone that was picked off by Eagles linebacker Jamie Silva.

But Maryland closed to 14-10 on a 27-yard field goal by Dan Ennis with 1:53 left in the half.

GAME 11

NC State 20, Maryland 14

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) - Toney Baker had the go-ahead touchdown on a 1-yard leap over the pile, Marcus Hudson returned one of his two interceptions 28 yards for a clinching score and North Carolina State beat Maryland in the ACC regular-season finale for both teams.

Mario Williams tied his own school record with four sacks for the Wolfpack (6-5, 3-5 Atlantic Coast Conference), who allowed a total of minus-6 yards in the third quarter.

The Terrapins (5-6, 3-5) were hampered by repeated turnovers and other mistakes down the stretch.

With Maryland trailing 10-7 in the fourth quarter, Hollenbach tried to connect with Danny Melendez, but Williams forced him to throw early. Hudson stepped in front of Melendez and ripped the ball out of his hands, then sprinted up the sideline with his first interception of the season.

That made it 17-7, and on the next possession, Williams sacked Hollenbach and forced a fumble, with defensive tackle DeMario Pressley recovering for the Wolfpack. When the Terps held, John Deraney came on for a 29-yard field goal to increase the margin to 20-7.

Hollenbach bounced back to lead Maryland on a 75-yard drive to pull within 20-14, finishing it off with a scoring toss to tight end Vernon Davis that covered 15 yards. But NC State held on for its fourth win in the final five games when Hudson intercepted another of Hollenbach's passes with 34 seconds left.

Hollenbach was 20-for-35 for 235 yards.

Maryland completely controlled the first half, yet led only 7-3 after Dan Ennis hooked two field goals wide left. And the only points for NC State - a 38-yard field goal by Deraney - came after Jo Jo Walker bobbled a punt into the hands of Hudson.

The Wolfpack needed to drive 13 yards to take a 3-0 lead. They struggled offensively in the opening half and finished with only 39 yards on 21 plays.

MEDIA GUIDELINES

Spring Practice Media Policies

Spring football practices are open to the media. Photographers, television and still, are allowed to shoot the first five periods of practice (approximately 30 minutes) and will be asked to cease shooting at that time. All members of the media are asked to view practice from the sideline that runs along Stadium Drive and should stay at least three yards off of the sideline when drills are in progress.

Like the regular season, post-practice interviews will take place outside of the visiting team locker room in Byrd Stadium. A sheet will be posted and media should fill out the sheet to ensure that their requests are logged.

It is suggested, but not required, that media who do not regularly cover the team and media planning to attend Tues./Thurs. practice sessions contact the media relations office prior to attending practice. Practice times are subject to change. Media and fans alike should check the Maryland Gridiron Network website (<https://www.mdgridiron.umd.edu/GameInfo/PracSched.html>) for updated times.

Interviews

All interviews must be arranged through Greg Creese. Players have been instructed not to participate in interviews unless they have been arranged through the Media Relations Office. Player phone numbers will not be released, and members of the media are asked not to attempt to contact student-athletes or relatives on the telephone.

E-mail Service

Football releases can be obtained electronically by contacting Greg Creese at gcreese@umd.edu. List TERP NEWS in the subject heading, and include the name of your media outlet and phone number in your message. (This is a media service only).
