ALL-AMERICA TRADITION

1 :: Playing in the nation's toughest conference, the Atlantic Coast Conference, Terrapin women's soccer players have the opportunity to excel at the highest level of college soccer. With that excellence comes national recognition. Overall, 12 former Terps have earned 17 All-America accolades during the past 20 seasons. Mallory Mahar was the last player to be named an All-American, earning a third-team selection in 2004. Kelly Amonte (insert photo) was the first, being named a second team NSCAA All-American in 1993.

GOALKEEPING LEGACY

2 :: One of the trademarks of Maryland women's soccer throughout its history has been excellent defense, highlighted by outstanding goalkeepers. Missy Price was an All-Region honoree in 1996 before passing the goalkeeping reins to Riki-Ann Serrins, who was a two-time All-ACC performer. Ali Wolff (insert photo) earned second team All-Mid-Atlantic Region honors from the NSCAA in 2001 and still holds the school record for career shutouts. Nikki Resnick (pictured) is the latest in this long line of shot-stoppers. She was a two-time first team All-ACC selection and helped lead the Terps to the NCAA's Sweet 16 in 2004.

NCAA TOURNAMENT TESTED

3 :: Since 1995 the Terrapins have made nine NCAA tournament appearances, advancing past the first round on six occasions. The last Maryland team to reach the national tournament was the 2004 squad. The Terps defeated Loyola (Md.) 3-0 in the first round, setting up a meeting with overall No. 2-seed Penn State on their home field in the second round. The Terps pulled off the historic upset, knocking off the Nittany Lions, 1-0, on Mallory Mahar's goal in the 33rd minute. Nikki Resnick stopped 10 Penn State shots to make the lead hold up, sending the Terps to the Sweet 16.

BEST OF THE BEST

4 :: Soccer fans know that you can't just look at the stat sheet to tell who is the best player on the field. That's certainly true of arguably the best player to lace up her boots for the Terps - Erin Taylor. The midfielder from Jupiter, Fla., scored only 12 goals in her four seasons in College Park, but she was a dominating defender and is the only NSCAA first team All-American in Terrapin history.

PROLIFIC SCORERS

5 :: Maryland soccer isn't all defense though. Historically, the Terps have boasted a prolific offense. Keri Sarver (right) and Emmy Harbo (insert bottom left) were the most prolific duo in Maryland history, combining for 295 points on 117 goals and 61 assists from 1995-98.

PLAYING THE BEST

6 :: Maryland traditionally plays one of the toughest schedules in the nation. Since 1999, Maryland has defeated 20 top-25 teams, including two last season. But it might have been the 1-1 tie at No. 2 North Carolina on Nov. 1, 2001 that proved to the world that Terrapin soccer had arrived.

SEASON OUTLOOK

TERPS LOOKING TO RETURN TO NCAA TOURNAMENT

The Maryland women's soccer team heads into 2007 with confidence that the struggles of the past two seasons, and the reasons behind them, are in the past.

That optimism stems from an exciting blend of returning talent and leadership with athletic and skilled newcomers. The health problems that have plagued the program for the past three seasons also appear to be over.

Third-year head coach Brian Pensky is anxious to get the season under way and show the nation that Maryland is prepared to return to NCAA tournament contention.

"We are extremely excited about this fall," says Pensky. "Our players had a terrific spring season, and have worked hard this summer to make sure they come in prepared."

Here's a quick look at the 2007 Terps by position:

FORWARD

It was no secret the Terps had trouble scoring goals last season, but a solid corps of forwards should be the cure for that ailment.

Senior co-captain Kelly Rozumalski returns for her fourth season in College Park and appears to be on track for her best season yet. She is among the fittest players in the conference and her speed makes her a threat to get behind defenders.

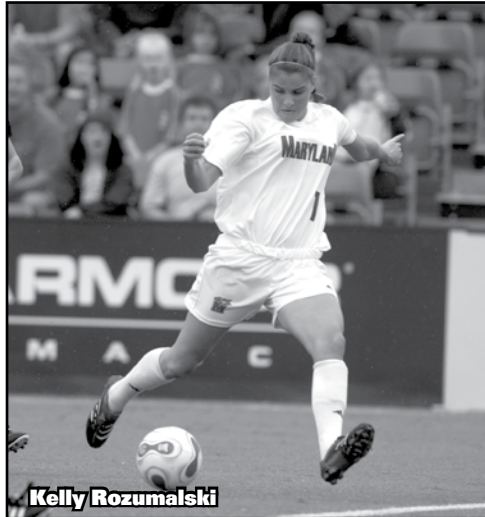

Melissa Hornfeck will look to find the finishing touch that earned her two junior college national player of the year awards. The senior has a dynamic left foot that is a danger to score from nearly anywhere in the offensive third of the field. Her versatility is also an asset and she could play wide midfield as well.

Fourth-year junior Lauren Gamble will also play a significant role up top for the Terps. The former defender made the transition to forward during the 2006 season and led the squad in scoring in ACC games.

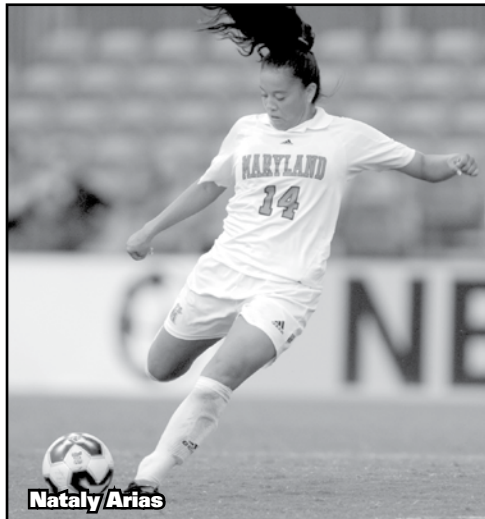

Another pair of juniors are also expected to contribute up top as well. Kaila Sciascia is a natural finisher the coaching staff expects to have a breakthrough season. Stephanie MacCormack saw limited minutes last season, but had a tremendous spring season and is among the most competitive players on the Terrapin squad. Both players could also contribute at other spots on the field with Sciascia seeing time as a center midfielder, while MacCormack was also used as a defender in the spring and gave an outstanding effort.

Three newcomers who could prove to be instrumental to the Terps' offensive production are Kylie Ricker, Annesia Faulkner and Olivia Onyeador. Ricker is an NSCAA All-American after scoring 93 goals and adding 25 assists during her prep career. Faulkner was the 2006 Baltimore Sun player of the year after putting up 20 goals and 18 assists for St. Vincent Pallotti. Onyeador is a special athlete, blessed with speed and power, and could contribute up top or along the Terps' back line.

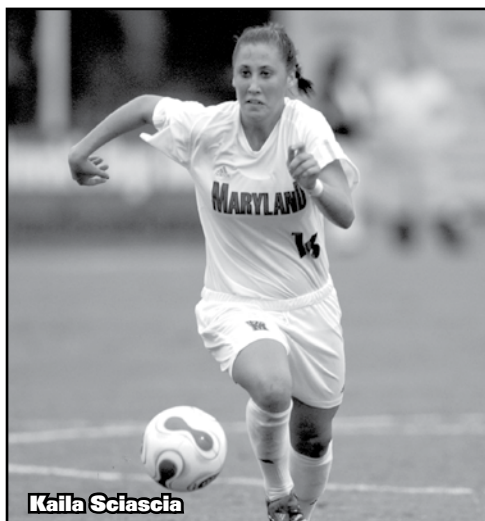

The x-factor at forward could be redshirt-sophomore Kimmy Bunting. After missing all of the 2006 with a concussion, Bunting appears ready to fulfill the promise she showed in 2005.

CENTRAL MIDFIELD

A team needs to be strong up the middle of the field to compete against the nation's top teams, and the Terps seem to have several talented options in the central midfield.

"We enter this season with solid depth in a number of spots," says Pensky. "Losing Molly Dreska to an ACL tear this summer will not help; yet we're very confident that several of our other players can step in to have a significant impact in a similar role."

Nataly Arias, widely considered among the best center midfielders in the ACC, returns for Pensky's squad after missing the entire 2006 season due to knee surgery. The redshirt-junior from Alexandria, Va., is healthier than she's ever been during her tenure in College Park and is eager to prove that she belongs among the nation's best.

Co-captain Shelly McDuff started all 18 games for the Terps last season, anchoring a central midfield that was shredded by injury. The senior leader proved to be solid asset who played well beyond her 5-foot-2 frame.

Emily Maynard began her Terrapin career with a bang last season, scoring the game-winning goal in Maryland's 1-0 upset of No. 10 Tennessee in the season opener. She went on to become just the sixth freshman in the history of the Maryland women's soccer program to lead the team in scoring - and she missed four matches along the way due to injury. She heads into this season fully healthy and is incredibly fit. Pensky expects big things from Maynard in her sophomore season. She could also see time as a wide midfielder.

Freshmen Caitlin McDowell and Mallory Baker will also be given the chance to compete for playing time in the central midfield. Both are coming off of fantastic summer club seasons. McDowell led her U18 Solar team to the U.S. Youth National Championships, while Baker's U18 PDA Fury squad advanced to the regional finals.

WIDE MIDFIELD

The wide midfield spots are an open competition as the Terps head into fall camp. Maryland's depth at central midfield and forward will help out at the wide midfield position.

Junior Amanda Paizs will get a chance to compete at her natural midfield position after contributing as a defender during her first two seasons. That experience could prove vital, with Pensky planning to continue with a three-back defensive formation.

A pair of sophomores who enjoyed some success during their freshman campaigns return to compete for playing time. Maureen Dowling showcases tremendous speed and is a natural left-side attacking midfielder. Brittany Cummins brings great technical skills to the table in addition to outstanding speed. She saw time as a wide defender last season, but returns to her natural position this year.

Freshman Erika Theisen is expected to come in and compete for playing time right away and provide an offensive spark. The two-time NSCAA all-region honoree brings an expectation of winning after leading River Hill High School to a 20-0 record in 2006. Theisen could also see time along the back line as well.

Colleen Deegan is another freshman who could compete for playing time at wide midfield, while fellow freshmen McDowell and Baker could contribute there as well.

DEFENSE

The backbone of the Terrapin team lies along its defensive line as all three starters return from a 2006 defense that allowed only 15 goals, which ranked second in the ACC behind only the national champion UNC Tar Heels.

Senior Ashly Kennedy returns for her final season as a Terp and looks to cement her legacy as one of Maryland's all-time best defenders. The 2007 co-captain is among the fastest defensive players in the conference, but its her physical style of play that sets her apart from the rest.

Junior Aimee Bresani is a tough, no-nonsense player who has been a fixture in the Terrapin backfield the past two seasons. The native of Woodbury, N.J., has started all 36 games during her Maryland career.

Joining Kennedy and Bresani could be sophomore Mary Casey, who started the final 12 games of the season as a defender. The only thing that could stop Casey, who showed great progress throughout her freshman season, from returning to start at defense in 2007 would be if she won the starting goalkeeping job.

In addition to Onyeador and Theisen, who could also be used in the back, freshmen Chelsea Sprague and Alissa Bourne will also compete for playing time. Sprague helped her club team to the Region I title game, while Bourne is a two-time All-Metro selection.

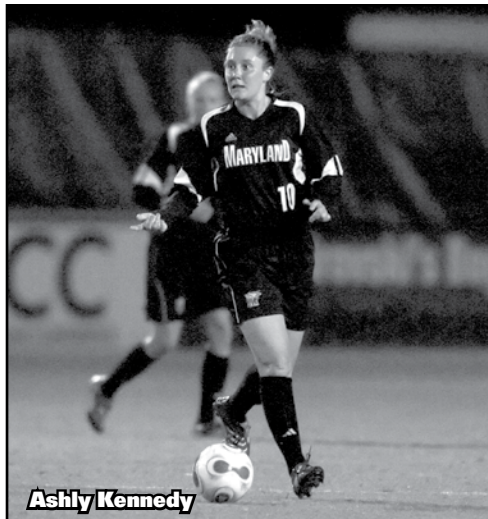

GOALKEEPING

The most intriguing position battle heading into the season is the starting goalkeeper battle. Two-time first team All-ACC keeper Nikki Resnick finished her brilliant career last fall and her successor will come down to Casey or talented freshman Wendy Balogun.

Each competitor brings tremendous athleticism and shot-stopping abilities to the table and Pensky expects it to be a great battle. One thing is for certain, Maryland, which has a history of top goalkeepers, will have another in between the pipes this fall.

Casey arrived on campus as a talented goalkeeper with a big upside. She was Resnick's backup last year, but injuries and problems with depth forced Pensky to try the ultra-athletic Casey in the defensive backfield. She could return to her natural position of goalkeeper this season, following a summer that saw her win the Golden Glove Award, awarded to the tournament's top goalkeeper at the U.S. Youth National Championships. She led her team to the U19 national title game.

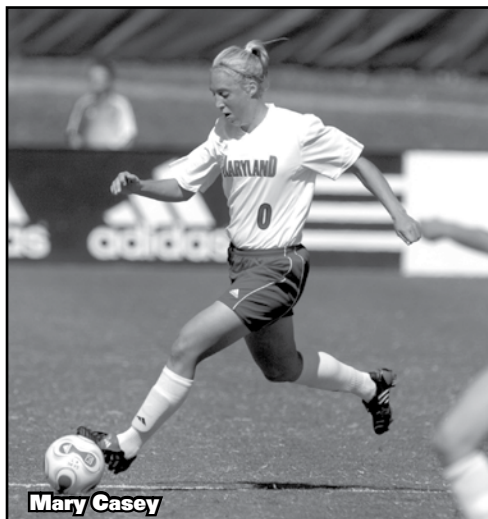

Balogun is arguably the most highly-touted recruit to come to Maryland. She was rated the No. 3 recruit in the entire nation by SoccerBuzz. Earlier this year she was invited to the U20 U.S. women's national camp.

SCHEDULE

The Terps always have one of the nation's toughest schedules and the 2007 slate is once again filled with tough games against quality opponents, including nine teams that were in the NCAA tournament last year.

"As always, we play a very competitive schedule," says Pensky. "The IU tournament will be a quality test as we play USC and LMU from the west coast. Then we come home to play tough, physical teams like Dartmouth and George Mason. The ACC will be a bear again this year; however I feel great about our team knowing that we were second in the ACC in goals against last year to UNC."

The ACC is widely regarded as the toughest women's soccer conference in the country and that isn't going to change this season. Three ACC schools, Florida State (2), North Carolina (3) and Boston College (4) boasted recruiting classes ranked among the top five in the nation, according to SoccerBuzz. Overall the ACC had seven of the top 25 recruiting classes with Duke (8), Virginia (11), Maryland (20) and Miami (21) joining the Seminoles, Tar Heels and Eagles.

Maryland's ACC schedule is highlighted by home games vs. Wake Forest (Oct. 5), 2006 NCAA champion North Carolina (Oct. 7), Virginia Tech (Oct. 28), Boston College (Nov. 1) and NC State (Nov. 4). The Terps will travel to meet Clemson in the conference opener on Sept. 27. Maryland will also hit the road to face Florida State (Oct. 11), Miami (Oct. 14), Duke (Oct. 21) and Virginia (Oct. 25).

Before Maryland even gets to its conference schedule it has to get through a challenging non-conference lineup. The Terps open the season with a pair of home matches against Eastern Kentucky (Aug. 31) and Fairleigh Dickinson (Sept. 2). From there the Terrapins head to Bloomington, Ind., to compete at the Hoosier Classic against a pair of opponents from Los Angeles - USC (Sept. 7) and Loyola Marymount (Sept. 9).

Maryland then plays three straight home matches against Dartmouth (Sept. 14), George Mason (Sept. 16) and Kent State (Sept. 22).

After coming back from Clemson, Maryland finishes its non-conference schedule with a home match with Patriot League foe Lehigh (Sept. 30).

The ACC tournament will be held in Orlando, Fla., from Nov. 7-11.

HEAD COACH BRIAN PENSKY

THIRD SEASON AT MARYLAND • EMORY '91

Brian Pensky is entering his third season as the head coach of the Maryland women's soccer program and has the Terps primed to make a run at the NCAA tournament.

Pensky was hired as Maryland's head coach on May 18, 2005 after serving as an assistant coach with the Maryland men's soccer team for three years, helping them to College Cup appearances every season.

The 2007 season is one of the most anticipated in recent years, thanks in large part to the nation's 20th-ranked recruiting class, according to SoccerBuzz. Pensky secured his first top-20 class as Terp head coach and landed two top-100 recruits in goalkeeper Wendy Balogun (No. 3 overall) and Erika Theisen.

During his first two seasons with the women's soccer team, Pensky's squads have been ravaged by injuries, but his teams have consistently been one of the toughest defensive teams in the country. The Terps were second in the ACC, the nation's toughest women's soccer conference, in goals against in 2006.

In the last two seasons, Pensky's squad continued one of the legacies of the program – knocking off top-10 teams. In seven of the last eight seasons the Terps have defeated a team ranked in the top 10. In 2005 Maryland defeated No. 8 Boston College, 2-1, in the regular-season finale to secure a trip to the ACC Tournament. Last season saw Maryland defeat 10th-ranked Tennessee, 1-0, in the season opener. The Terps also defeated No. 11 Virginia 2-0 in their final home contest of 2006.

In addition, Pensky helped mentor two-time first team All-ACC goalkeeper Nikki Resnick and 2005 All-ACC midfielder Kimmy Francis. Resnick finished her career second on Maryland's career lists in saves (353) and shutouts (19.0), while Francis is third in career points (67), sixth in career goals (22) and fourth in career assists (23).

Pensky, who has served as a men's and women's assistant coach at the collegiate level, helped guide the Terrapin men's soccer team to 57 wins over the past three seasons, including the ACC Tournament title in 2002 and regular season crown in 2003. In 2004, CollegeSoccerNews.com named Pensky one of the top assistant coaches in the nation.

Prior to working under Sasho Cirovski for three seasons, where he was involved in all facets of the program, Pensky was an assistant at Loyola College, where he helped the Greyhound women's team win the 2001 MAAC Conference Tournament and earn a bid to the NCAA tournament in his one season with the program. He came to Loyola after spending three years as an assistant coach in George Washington's women's soccer program.

Pensky has also been involved with the Maryland girls' Olympic Development Program team since 1997. He served as an assistant coach for the Under-15 team from 1999-2000, helping that squad to the 1999 Region I championship and a national runner-up finish in 2000.

In the spring of 2000, he took over as head coach of the U-16 team and led it to a regional championship. In 2001, he worked with the U-16 ODP team and finished as the regional runner-up. Pensky spent the summer of 2001 coaching the W-League's Maryland Pride, which reached the Final Four and won the Eastern Conference championship.

He began his coaching career at the Bullis School in Potomac, Md., where he later went on to teach and eventually piloted the boys' soccer team from 1996-98. While at the Bullis School, he was named 1997 High School Coach of the Year by the Maryland Ledger and paced the 18-1-1 IAC champions to a No. 13 ranking in the nation.

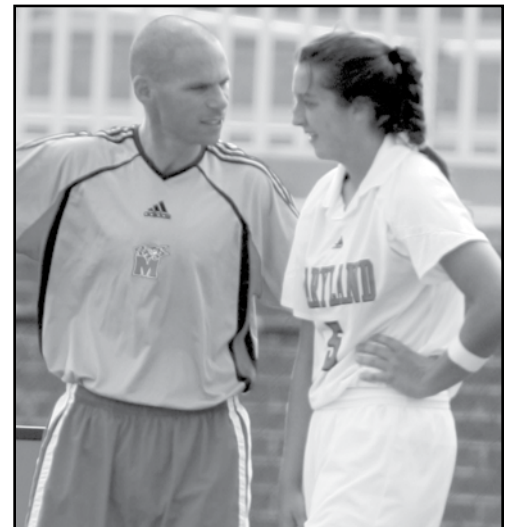

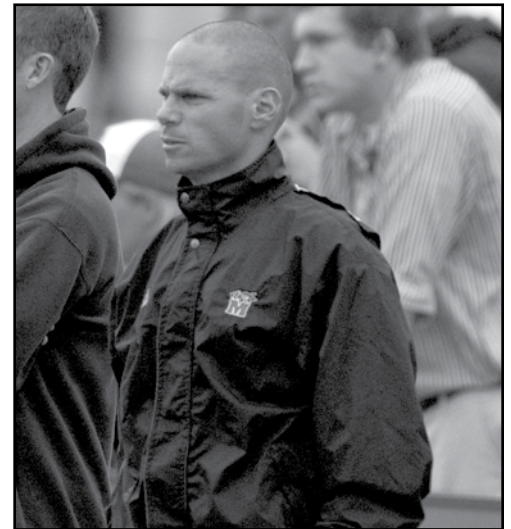

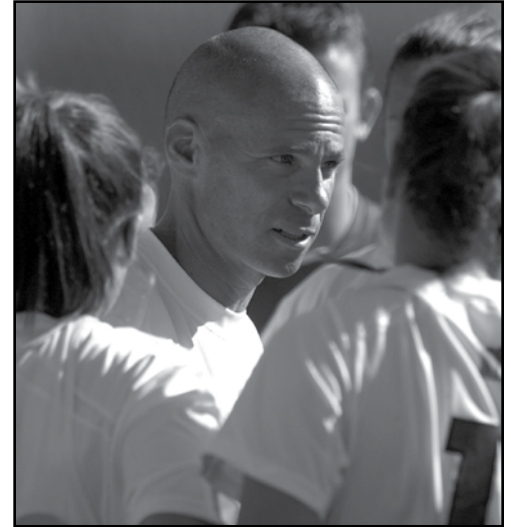

In addition to his college and high school coaching experience, Pensky coached the Bethesda Soccer Club from 1991-99.

Pensky holds a bachelor's degree in economics from Emory University, as well as an "A" license from the United States Soccer Federation, an NSCAA Premier and NSCAA goalkeeping diploma.

Pensky and his wife, Abby, have three children, boy-girl twins Will and Alex who are five, and Ben, who turned three in March. The Pensky family resides in Kensington, Md.

COACHING STAFF

JONATHAN MORGAN

ASSISTANT COACH

Rowan '96
First year at Maryland

Jonathan Morgan, one of the nation's top assistant soccer coaches, is in his first year as an assistant coach at the University of Maryland.

Morgan came to Maryland after spending two seasons as an assistant coach at Ohio State. At Ohio State, Morgan was primarily responsible for coordinating the offensive attack and recruiting. Under Morgan's tutelage the Buckeyes finished third in the Big Ten in points per game with a 4.84 ppg average. The 2006 Buckeyes boasted the Big Ten conference's statistical individual leader in goals, goals per game, points per game, assists and assists per game.

Prior to coaching at Ohio State, Morgan spent three seasons as a volunteer coach at Rutgers, where he helped the Scarlet Knights to postseason appearances in 2002, '03 and '04.

A native of Dover, Del., Morgan was a four-year starter at Rowan College in Glassboro, N.J., serving as team captain his senior season with the Profs. After he finished his playing career, he broke into the college coaching ranks with his alma mater in 1995, helping the Rowan men's team to a 17-1 mark and an appearance in the second round of the NCAA tournament.

He has also been involved with the Olympic Development Programs in Delaware and New Jersey, leading the New Jersey ODP girl's U-17 team to the Region 1 ODP championship in 2001. The team earned a trip to the ODP National championships and placed third.

A USSF "B" licensed and KNVB Dutch Certificate coach, Morgan has served as a member of the United States Youth Soccer Association (USYSA) Region 1 staff. He graduated from Rowan in 1996 with a bachelor's degree in law/justice.

Laurie Pells

ASSISTANT COACH

Georgian Court College '98
First year at Maryland

One of the nation's top goalkeeping coaches, Laurie Pells joined the Maryland women's soccer program on April 27, 2007.

Pells came to Maryland after spending the previous six years as an assistant coach at Clemson. During that time, the Lady Tigers reached the NCAA tournament each year, including the 2006 Elite Eight and the 2001 Sweet 16 of the NCAA tournament and a No. 11 final ranking.

Clemson's defense was outstanding while Pells coached the goalkeepers. During her six seasons there, Clemson registered 53 team shutouts and allowed just over one goal per match.

Prior to coaching at Clemson, Pells was an assistant coach at the College of New Jersey for three years. While there, the Lions won the 2000 NCAA Division III National Championship. The College of New Jersey was a semifinalist in 1999 and finalist in 1998 at the NCAA Division III National Tournament.

Pells graduated from Georgian Court College (Lakewood, N.J.) with a B.A. degree in elementary education and psychology in 1998. At Georgian Court College, she was a starting goalkeeper for four seasons and was a three-time NSCAA All-America goalkeeper. While at Georgian Court College, she led her team to the NAIA Final Four in 1994 and 1995 and the quarterfinals in 1997. In her senior season in 1997, the two-time team captain was selected as one of the top 16 players in the nation by being named to the Umbro Select Elite 16.

During her time at GCC, she set the NSCAA national record with 57 career shutouts as a goalkeeper and was named conference player of the year as a senior. Pells was also named the New Jersey Woman of the Year after her sophomore season.

Pells graduated with a master's degree from the College of New Jersey in the spring of 2001 from the School of Counseling.

Pells played two years in the W-League with the Delaware Genies. Pells was drafted by the Philadelphia Charge in the Women's United Soccer Association (WUSA) Professional League and played one season in the summer of 2001.

Pells is a director for former US National Team coach Tony DiCicco with SoccerPlus Goalkeeper Camps. She is a member of the ODP Region I coaching staff.

Pells served on the coaching staff with the U14 Girls U.S. National Team in the summer of 2006. She has her USSF B Coaching License and NSCAA Advance National Goalkeeper License.

Pells was inducted into the inaugural Hillsborough (N.J.) High School Athletic Hall of Fame on March 22, 2003. In her free time she trains for sprint triathalons and has competed in six during the past five years.
